

Let Courts Have Watergate, Nixon Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proclaiming anew he was not involved in the Watergate scandal, President Nixon has appealed to the nation to let the courts decide the guilt or innocence of individuals involved.

"The time has come to turn Watergate over to the courts where the questions of guilty or innocence belong," Nixon said. "The time has come for the rest of us to get on with the urgent business of the nation."

Nixon accepted full responsibility for the actions of his aides "because the abuses occurred during my administration and in the campaign for my re-election." He also defended his decision not to turn over presidential tape recordings to the special Watergate prosecutor or Senate Committee.

But he said the Senate Watergate committee had failed to disclose "the slightest evidence...that I had any knowledge of the planning for the Watergate break-in."

Nixon's nationwide television and radio speech and accompanying statement defended his efforts to learn the truth about Watergate—the facts of which the President said, he did not learn until March 21 this year.

He concluded with a plea to "not stay so mired in Watergate that we fail to respond to challenges of surpassing importance to America and the world."

Nixon's long-awaited statement did not offer rebuttal Watergate questions. "It has not been my intention to attempt any such comprehensive and detailed response," Nixon explained.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., commented that the president's address "did not add anything to his other speeches that would tend to divert suspicion from him." But Goldwater said he supports the President in his appeal for Americans to recognize dangers to the country and the world.

George Bush, chairman of the Republican National Committee, called the speech "credible and very reasonable." He said he is convinced the American people want the country freed "from the Watergate obsession."

His counterpart, Robert Strauss of the Democratic National Committee, said the President "neither added nor subtracted anything from where we were before he went on the air."

Nixon reaffirmed the stand his lawyers have taken in federal court—that by releasing tape recordings made of conversations in his office and on his telephone "the confidentiality of the office of the President would always be suspect."

"That is why I shall continue to oppose efforts which would set a precedent that would cripple all future presidents by inhibiting conversations between them and those they look to for advice," he said.

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, a member of the Senate committee, said he was disappointed with the statement and bothered by the President's remarks that the committee was absorbed in implicating Nixon.

"I believe the contrary to be true," Inouye said. "Never have we as a panel or as individuals ever suggested that the President was aware of or involved in the break-in."

Nixon deplored the abuses in the 1972 campaign, but said a few overzealous people should not be permitted "to tar the reputation of the millions of dedicated Americans who fought hard but clean for the candidates of their choice in 1972."

He pledged to do all he could to ensure one of the results of Watergate "is a new level of political decency and integrity in America."

Nixon said from the time of the break-in "I pressed repeatedly to know the facts and particularly whether there was any involvement by anyone at the White House."

He said he depended on Justice Department and FBI investigations and assigned White House counsel, John W. Dean III, to monitor those investigations.

But through the summer of 1972, Nixon said, he was told no White House members were involved.

"I trusted the agencies conducting the investigations," Nixon said. "I did not believe the newspaper accounts that suggested a cover-up. I was convinced that there was no cover-up, because I was convinced that no one had anything to cover up."

Nixon only obliquely referred to former acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III's assertion that he told the President on July 6 last year that "people on your staff are trying to mortally wound you by using the CIA and FBI..." to cover up the probe.

Nixon said his own investigation was prompted because "I learned of some of the activities upon which charges of cover-up are now based."

He said he was told of fundraising for the Watergate defendants, but not that the money was to buy silence. Nixon added that, he was told a member of his staff had talked to one of the defendants about clemency "but not that offers of clemency had been made."

And he said he learned about blackmail attempts by E. Howard Hunt, demanding $120,000, "as the price of not talking about other activities, unrelated to Watergate, in which he had engaged."

The President said the allegations were in general terms and not supported by details or evidence.

The statement conflicts with Dean's testimony, who said he was specific and told Nixon in March that the demands might reach $1 million. Dean said the President said that should be no problem.

Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., R-Calif., son of the 1964 GOP presidential nominee, also commented:

"On the one hand he asks for the trust of the American people, but he doesn't trust them enough to let them hear the tapes."

Most of the principals in the affair declined to comment on the President's renewed denials of personal involvement. Special prosecutor Archibald Cox and some members of the Senate Watergate committee also would not say anything.

White House spokesmen said calls jamming the presidential switchboard immediately after the speech ran as much as six-to-one in favor at times.

One favorable reaction came from a source quite close to the President—the First Lady. "The President spoke from the heart and it went to the hearts of the American people," Mrs. Nixon said.

Bill Roy, D-Kan., commented: "Two things surprised me: the utter lack of anything new in the speech, and his asking the people to trust Nixon and associates to prevent those things done previously by Nixon and associates. That dumbfounded me."

Philadelphia Mayor Frank Rizzo said, "I wish to commend the President for his courage... I agree that the Watergate issue should be resolved in the courts... Let us close ranks behind him and the great office he holds."

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., said, "The President did not answer these serious charges with any specifics. We wanted facts, he gave us rhetoric. That the President could or would equate the cries and protests for quality, justice and peace of the 1960's — openly manifested — with the sordid and surreptitious Watergate violations of law surpasses my understanding."

California Gov. Ronald Reagan was one of the large number of Republican leaders praising the President's speech.

"His message was the voice of reason which went a long way toward putting the whole situation in better perspective," Reagan said, endorsing Nixon's suggestion that the forum now be shifted to the courts.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., the man Nixon beat in 1972, rejected that view and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, a contender for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination said:

"I regret to say I was not impressed. He has not satisfied me on the question of how the President could have been totally ignorant until April of this year of activities he so roundly condemns."

"Moreover," Muskie said, "the suggestion that the investigation of these activities is more to be deplored than the activities themselves is a little hard to swallow."

Senate Watergate Committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said he would have no immediate comments as did some other committee members.

Vice chairman Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said the President's comments, "along with any future statements," will be given every consideration when the committee writes its report.

One person who didn't like the speech was Frank King, Ohio AFL CIO president.

"What he takes us for?" King asked. "A bunch of dumb rummies? To think that a President of the United States would think the American people so glib as to believe what he said tonight."

Agnew Charges Heard

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A special grand jury was expected to start hearing testimony today on allegations that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was involved in a bribery and kickback scheme.

Meanwhile, the Justice Department confirmed Wednesday that Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson met with Agnew privately to discuss the status of the investigation.

The meeting took place Aug. 6, according to department spokesman Horace Webb.

The overall investigation began last December, but did not involve Agnew until this spring. Subpoenaed records date back through Agnew's term as Baltimore county executive and governor of Maryland.

The New York Times reported in Thursday editions that Richardson told Agnew that prosecutors have statements from more than 20 Maryland businessmen who say they gave cash to Agnew associates in return for state contracts.

Citing unnamed sources, the Times also said Richardson told Agnew: —That three Agnew aides have told prosecutors they turned over some of the payments to the former Maryland governor. The three were identified as Lester Matz and Jerome Wolff, now Baltimore engineering consultants, and Allen I. Green, described by the Times a former close friend of the vice president.

—Green told prosecutors he gave kickbacks to Agnew about five times a year until 1969, less often after Agnew became vice president. Green was identified as president of a Towson, Md., engineering firm.

Webb said "The attorney general met with the vice president on Monday, Aug. 6. The purpose of the meeting was to supplement the information contained in the letter the vice president received from the United States attorney with a general picture of the status of the investigation."

He refused to say whether "the general picture" included the substantial details of the allegations.

Up to now the grand jury has concentrated on investigating officials in Baltimore County, where Agnew made his political start more than a decade ago, and of engineering firms doing substantial business with the county and the state.

Petroleum Rules Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Phase 4 regulations for the oil industry still are not complete, and the price freeze on oil possibly will have to be extended a second time, Cost of Living Council sources say.

Although the price freeze was lifted from the rest of the economy Monday, it was extended an extra week for petroleum, until Aug. 19, because the new regulations weren't ready last week as scheduled.

A council spokesman said it was virtually certain the regulations would not be ready today. He said the council is hoping they can be released Friday, although there was doubt even of this date.

Even if the regulations are ready Friday, it still would give the petroleum industry—from oil refiners to gasoline retailers—less than three days to prepare to put them into effect in time for the freeze to be lifted Monday.

"Obviously it's going to be tight," said a council spokesman Wednesday when asked if it would be possible for the industry to move that fast over the weekend. It wasn't clear what was holding up the oil regulations.

Authority over price increases in the oil industry, meanwhile, was placed Wednesday in a new office of Price Stabilization, headed by Bert M. Concklin.

The office will be responsible for decisions on important price increase requests during the Phase 4 anti-inflation program from major firms in manufacturing, services, non-food wholesale and retail trade, and the oil industry.

Concklin's office also will be responsible for making recommendations on requests from entire sectors of industry for exemption from the Phase 4 controls.

In addition to the oil regulations, the council still had not decided its policy on public disclosure of proposals from major firms for price increases.

Although major firms began Monday giving notice to the government of their intention to increase prices in 30 days, there is yet to be a coordinated policy for compiling and releasing the information.

In other economic developments: —The government reported the nation had a surplus in its balance of payments during the second quarter of the year of $463 million, the first surplus in financial transactions with other countries in 3½ years.

—Administration sources said the government is studying whether to clamp export controls on wheat and other grains in a move to preserve domestic supplies in the face of increasing foreign demand that may be driving up prices.

—Secretary of Commerce Frederick B. Dent said the country must follow the standards of Phase 4 before it can return to a free-market economy.

Nixon Gives Congress Voice In Shaping Indochina Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has signaled that he finally was conceding Congress equal power in setting policy for Indochina, administration officials say.

The acknowledgment, Nixon's first direct concession on the issue, came in a statement on Cambodia issued Wednesday by the White House.

It said "It should be clearly understood in Hanoi that the President will work with Congress in order to take the appropriate action if North Vietnam mounts an offensive which jeopardizes the stability in Indochina."

The shift in Nixon's attitude toward congressional involvement actually was more important than the warning to Hanoi, the officials said.

They repeated that the United States is virtually helpless in influencing events in Indochina following an order by Congress that ended U.S. bombing of Cambodia as of Wednesday.

The same law prevents the reintroduction of any American combat role in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, which means Nixon holds no leverage in preventing Hanoi or its allies from acting.

It is understood that Nixon did not embrace Congress as a partner in future Indochina decisions because of a change of heart over his role or responsibility.

Instead, the President is said to be attempting to put Congress in a position where it can be blamed for any future aggressiveness by North Vietnam and for any failure in preventing further Communist victories.

This theme was first stated as the administration fought various attempts in Congress to limit its power in fighting the Vietnam war.

Now, Congress is on notice that action opposing the fall of Cambodia, which is considered likely, or a major new move by North Vietnam against South Vietnam or in Laos, will require action by Capitol Hill.

If, as the administration now expects, Congress refuses to give Nixon power to strike back or provide more direct aid to Saigon or other friendly Southeast Asian nations, then Nixon can say he had warned of such dire consequences.

In other words, Congress had sabotaged the Indochina peace Nixon had so carefully arranged on the basis of U.S. strength.

Officials pointed to a North Vietnamese attack in Laos, the first such offensive action there since a cease-fire went into effect four months ago.

This wouldn't have happened if Hanoi hadn't been convinced of Nixon's helplessness because of congressional restraints, the officials said.

Watergate Questions Unanswered

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's latest Watergate statement has left behind it questions that remain unanswered.

Among things Nixon did not answer in his speech and statement Wednesday night were:

—Why he didn't demand an accounting by his campaign director, John N. Mitchell, who swore he would have told the President about a cover-up if asked.

—Why he didn't directly ask his former counsel, John W. Dean III, whether anybody was involved in the wiretapping besides the seven men who were indicted and later convicted.

—Why he didn't follow up on a telephoned warning from former acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III, less than three weeks after the break-in, that men on the White House staff were trying to confuse the investigation.

—Why he didn't ask the FBI or the Justice Department to investigate "new information" which he says first came to him from Dean last March 21. This included allegations that other campaign officials were involved in the wiretapping, that money had been paid to the silent defendants, that clemency had been discussed with one of them and that another was attempting to blackmail the White House.

—How he first learned of the 1972 break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, and why he delayed for more than a month before allowing the information to go to the judge in the Pentagon Papers case.

Nixon has promised to hold a news conference sometime before Labor Day. Some of the unanswered questions may be addressed then.

Citizen Reaction To Nixon Speech

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN
Associated Press Writer

It was quiet in the large house at the Knox dairy farm in Weare, N.H. The President was on television talking about Watergate.

R. Leslie Knox, 53, watched the color set in the corner of the living room from the couch, getting up once to get a can of beer.

His wife Barbara, 51, sat in a nearby chair equally silent. Their daughter Jean, 9, fell asleep in her mother's lap toward the end of the speech.

Their son Paul, 22, and his fiancée Martha Griswold, 19, who lives on a small farm in the town, were there. Paul sat next to his dad; Martha in a chair next to Mrs. Knox.

The hired hand, Frank Flis, 18, was there, and Dick Smith, 55, a neighbor from nearby Contoocook wandered in later.

As the Knoxes gathered around the set in New Hampshire, among other Americans tuned in were those in a bar in Steelton, Pa., in an expensive home in San Francisco and a middle class house outside Chicago. A congressional aide watched in Washington. Some Salt Lake City businessmen viewed the address from a private club.

"I think at first I was probably sympathetic to Nixon," said Leslie, a burly man who was born in Montreal. "I think there are very few people who could be hung out on a clothesline like that and be questioned about every little thing."

"I'm wondering how well anyone would do. I'm sure I wouldn't do very well myself."

"There's a lot of things that go on this farm that I don't know about," continued Leslie, who says he and his wife are Republicans who voted for Nixon in 1972.

Across the country, in the expensive Presidio Heights section of San Francisco, lawyer William K. Coblentz, 50, watched the speech in his three-story, brown shingle home.

"I thought it would be a finely calibrated combination of pre-emptive omission and protective apology and that's exactly what it was," said Coblentz, a liberal Democrat who donated money to the McGovern campaign. "It was a well-orchestrated speech. Listening to it, I think I have become more of a cynic than ever before."

Regulated Emptiness

In a freely competitive society, competing airlines which found they were serving some routes with too many planes between them and too few landing at other stops simply would juggle flights and routes around in such a way as to better utilize assets and increase the company's advantage against its competitors.

The way it would know when a change was needed would be by the average load factor.

Hauling empty seats around is costly business for airlines, one which is shared by every passenger who buys a ticket. The airlines, however, are not permitted to alter routes without approval from the Civil Aeronautics Board. That usually is time-consuming and frequently frustrating.

An example of what can happen when air traffic is overserved are the routes between mainland United States and Hawaii. As a result of CAB action, no fewer than eight airlines traverse the Pacific with multiple flights daily. A survey of traffic on the flights in May showed an average load factor of 49.2 per cent.

Thus only half the seats are filled on the average trip to Hawaii or back to the U.S., an unprofitable performance for most airlines.

Myth As Weapon

By JEFFREY HART

It seems to be one of the distinguishing features of our time that so many supposed events, full of symbolic meaning and arousing profound emotion, did not in fact happen.

Only recently we have had the—I suppose relatively minor—examples of the dike bombing in North Vietnam, the supposed carpet bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong, and the supposed destruction of a hospital. All of these were widely credited. All helped influence opinion. But none of them occurred.

Reaching further back in time, it is now fairly clear that the widely received account of Guernica is almost surely false. The Nazis are supposed to have terror-bombed that Basque village, and Herman Goering is even widely believed to have admitted this at Nuremberg. The evidence now available to scholars, however, suggests that the Germans bombed military targets in and around Guernica, that some Italian bombs may have fallen on civilian targets through error, but that there was no "terror bombing." A forthcoming issue of National Review will print several articles on these points, including one that explodes the Goering item. Goering said nothing at Nuremberg about Guernica. Nevertheless, Guernica remains one of the potent political myths of the 20th century.

National Review, by the way, has been doing very useful work recently regarding other widely credited political myths.

In the current issue, Francis Russell presents convincing evidence that Nicola Sacco, executed in Charlestown State Prison, Mass., on August 23, 1927, actually was guilty of murder as charged. The evidence regarding Vanzetti remains less conclusive. Yet Sacco and Vanzetti are for many the working-class martyrs of the century.

During the past fortnight we have seen the birth of another political myth, which may or may not be based on fact. According to a story published in the London Times under the byline of Father Adrian Hastings, Portuguese forces in Mozambique killed all or nearly all of the 400 inhabitants of the village of Wiriyamu, and then burned the village to the ground.

It is not impossible that such an event did occur, yet there are features of the whole affair that raise doubts, as noted by James Burnham of, again, National Review.

Father Hastings does not claim to have witnessed the massacre, but to have received reports from unnamed Spanish priests. These, in turn, were not witnesses either, but received the information from a few victims who "managed to escape by flight." These victims who managed to escape seem to have been remarkable literate for African villagers: they supplied the names, ages, and sex of a couple of hundred of the dead, and even supplied details of the supposed killings, including last words. According to Father Hastings, all this was part of a "genocidal" campaign by the Portuguese. Yet the government forces in Mozambique are 70 per cent native, difficult to imagine in a "genocidal" campaign.

Finally, though the supposed massacre allegedly took place seven months ago, the Hastings story surfaced only a week before the visit of Portuguese Premier Marcello Caetano's visit to England to celebrate the 600th anniversary of the British-Portuguese alliance.

There is much more to say about this particular story.

But apropos of the modern use of political myth. It springs, I think, from the combination of rapid communications and the existence of a mass audience. Masses tend to be moved by emotion, and to think in terms of symbol and image rather than in words and careful distinctions.

And modern communications permit the easy manipulation of those symbols. And note: Not many of these political myths do the West much good.

Astronauts Ask For More Work

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab 2's astronauts, told to plan on completing a full 59-day mission, asked for more work aboard their orbiting laboratory even if it meant cutting back their sleep.

Skylab 2 commander Alan L. Bean and crewmates Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma also announced that one of about 50 minnow eggs aboard the space station hatched late Tuesday night.

The astronauts, in their 19th day in space today, scheduled medical tests and hours of observing the sun with telescope cameras. Bean also planned to fly a maneuvering device inside the dome of the large lab.

Meanwhile, launch crews at Cape Kennedy, Fla., prepared a would-be Skylab 2 rescue craft for use instead on a planned Skylab 3 mission. Officials decided on Tuesday that the crippled Apollo ferry craft now linked to Skylab would be able to bring Bean, Garriott and Lousma back to earth.

Bean told mission control Tuesday night that he and his crewmates were completing their work each day hours ahead of schedule. He asked that they be assigned more experiments.

Garriott relayed the birth announcement: "I guess it should be noted that we had the first birth ever noted in ... Space."

He said a minnow fingerling was swimming in a plastic-bag aquarium that holds the eggs. Another compartment of the bag contains two adult minnows.

The aquarium is part of a study of the effects of weightlessness, and Garriott said the fingerling was not swimming in the disoriented spirals that the adult minnows had adopted in space.

It "swims in a very normal manner ... as if he were already adapted to zero gravity during the hatching process," he said.

Work Furlough Plan Expanded

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio prison officials said today 162 inmates participated in work furlough programs between September 1972 and June 1973.

Michael Maraine, director of the program, said 57 of the 162 inmates took vocational training courses, 67 participated in academic training and 37 held outside jobs.

"Of the 162 offenders who have been processed, 48 have been turned over to parole status," Maraine said. "Only three furlongees have been charged with a new crime."

Under the furlough program, inmates must live in approved dwellings and submit to supervision by parole authorities.

Ottawa County Faces Hunting Restrictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — New federal waterfowl regulations will restrict duck hunting in Ottawa County this season.

The Interior Department offered states a choice of formulas Tuesday to limit hunting of ducks which suffered poor production this summer because of drought. The new regulations name Ottawa County as an area where duck flights will decrease.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I am contemplating having a vasectomy operation as a planned method to limit the size of my family.

You once suggested that great consideration be given to this decision because the operation cannot be undone, once performed.

Is it possible, as I have read in a scientific magazine, to freeze the sperm of a man for later use?

Could this be done if there is any change in our plans for having a larger family?

Mr. W.R., Pa.

Dear Mr. R.:

You are very wise to give such careful thought before embarking on a procedure that you may subsequently regret.

Far too many people have submitted to vasectomy only to find, with sorrow, that for them, at least, it was a mistake.

Anyone contemplating an operation for contraception should investigate all the physical and the psychological problems that may arise.

The vasectomy operation in men and tying off the Fallopian tubes in women are procedures that rarely, and only with great difficulty, can be reversed.

Patients sometimes become so enthusiastic about these forms of contraception that they actually do not want to hear or properly evaluate the warnings about problems that may arise.

You, obviously, have given thought to this matter and have considered that at some future time your thinking may change.

The deep freezing and the storage of human sperm have been under investigation in laboratories all over the world.

NEW YORK (AP) — When President Nixon first announced his Phase 1 economic policy two years ago today, stock market prices soared along with the hopes of a good many Americans.

Now, as the country moves into Phase 4, economists seem to agree that economic controls have had limited success at best.

Some economists feel that controls were effective at first but later turned sour. Others write them off as disasters from the start.

The 90-day wage and price freeze of Phase 1 and the rigid controls of Phase 2 were "reasonably successful," says Tom Spitznas, associate economist at New York's Chemical Bank.

"Phase 1 killed off inflationary expectations — or appeared to — and Phase 2 stopped the wage-price spiral," he says. "But it was like two steps forward and one step back. Controls in 1971 and 1972 moderated inflation, but the second price freeze backfired."

By the time Phase 3 with its voluntary controls was announced, he said, inflation was the result of growing demand, "and you can't expect controls to work as effectively here."

Nobel Prize-winning economist Paul Samuelson also said that controls worked well in the beginning. "But the problem with controls is that we don't know how to make them last. By the time Phase 3 came, the controls had become inefficient, ineffective and inequitable."

In the view of Francis H. Schott, vice president and economist with the Equitable Life Assurance Society, "price controls have done very little good and very little harm."

"Prices would have been about where they are now whether there had been controls or not," he declared. "The regulations leaned with the wind, and were not strong enough to make any material difference on supply and

"The artificial insemination of sperm that is 'fresh' has been successful. However, frozen sperm kept more than four to six months has not been nearly so effective."

A recent report by Dr. Keith D. Smith and Dr. Emil Steinberger, of the University of Texas Medical School in Houston, said, "The total number of pregnancies resulting from semen stored longer than six months is exceedingly small."

This report is consistent with other similar reports. In the light of it, you should be extremely careful in considering all possible factors before embarking on a vasectomy procedure.

When are forceps used in the delivery of a child? Are they dangerous?

Mrs. L.O.E., S.C.

Dear Mrs. E.:

Forceps are highly specialized instruments placed about the baby's head to make the delivery easier and faster for the mother.

When the mother is exhausted and is having difficulty during labor, this method is safely and painlessly employed.

Both the mother and the child benefit by this technique when the doctor thinks it is indicated.

Can massage ever be dangerous?

Mrs. S. K., Ark.

Dear Mrs. K.:

Massage has many advantages. It can stimulate the blood supply, and give good tone to muscles.

When massage is too vigorous, or when it is used on people who are in a weakened or frail condition, it can be harmful.

Stoutsville Laughter Hard To Come By In Nation's Capital

By ANN BLACKMAN

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alice Roosevelt Longworth found a bat in her boudoir last week, and she couldn't stop laughing about it. Laughter these days in this muggy, scandal-ridden capital is hard to come by.

"You say everyone is depressed?" asked Mrs. Longworth, the scion of Washington aristocracy and President Theodore Roosevelt's candid, wispy-thin daughter. "I don't think in those terms."

"Everyone is hypnotized by Watergate. One hangs on the boob tube all day long. But depressed? I'm not depressed at all."

At 89, having lived through the Harding administration and Teapot Dome, Mrs. Longworth can't be expected to lie awake worrying about Watergate—or even the 2-cent rise in the cost of a loaf of bread.

But many of her Washington neighbors fret in proportion to the black headlines. The sky isn't falling, but on the cocktail circuit and in the green federal work warrens, some insist the government is.

So how do Washington residents find respite from the high temperatures and pressure-cooker atmosphere? Some leave the city.

President Nixon has spent almost five of the past seven weeks away from the capital. And, after Agnew dismissed allegations against him as "damn lies," the vice president took off for a long weekend of golf in Palm Springs, Calif.

But for those who must depend on the highways and bridges to lead them to water, weekends are often synonymous with traffic jams.

The alternative?

Stay in Washington. And many do. "We're home for the summer, and it's awful," said Margot Hahn, a prominent Washington hostess who is wife of former D.C. City Council Chairman Gilbert Hahn Jr. "Everybody's depressed. The government is in shambles, and the (stock) market's disastrous."

Like the Hahns, many people remain in Washington for the summer because their work demands it. On Capitol Hill where Congress recessed for the summer a week and a half ago, dozens of Senate Watergate staffers are continuing the investigation.

"Vacation?" grumbled one lawyer. "I'm lucky if I have energy enough to take a cold shower when I get home."

Near the White House at the Sans Souci restaurant, the fashionable French watering hole for administration biggies, Maitre D' Paul DeLisle insists it's still necessary to book reservations a week in advance.

"Business is beautiful," he said. "Normally, it's very quiet in the summer. But this year people have not gone away. Maybe because they're working on Watergate. I give Mr. Haldeman's and Mr. Ehrlichman's table to other people now. But Mr. Kissinger is here today, and he was here yesterday."

Mr. and Mrs. Estell Salyers and family of near Circleville and Mrs. Leona Rife were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Conrad.

Saturday visitors of Mrs. A. B. Wynkoop were Pvt. John Peters of Fort Knox, Ky. Mr. and Mrs. John Heeter, Billy and Timmy of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Wynkoop, Mrs. Sherry Noble and son, Matthew.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Scott and family of Portsmouth, Va., spent a weeks vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Don Zeimer and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Winegardner and daughters of Circleville visited also.

The following guests and members enjoyed the afternoon: Mrs. Maude Christy, Mrs. Pauline Reinchild, Miss Stella Miesse, Mrs. Carrie Barr, Mrs. Maxine Christy and Cheryl, Mrs. Mazie Lash, Mrs. Edith Fausnagh, Mrs. Sally Kennedy and Mrs. Barr.

Pregnancy Not Valid To Deny Jobless Pay

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—U. S. District Judge Robert Krupansky has ruled that women who have been fired solely because they became pregnant cannot be denied unemployment compensation.

William Papier, director of research of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services, says the Tuesday decision will cost the state at least $300,000 a year.

Unemployment benefits have been denied employees discharged because of pregnancy. Judge Krupansky's order is retroactive to Oct. 22, 1972.

That is the day Edythe Lasko, the Fairview Park woman who challenged the denial, would have been eligible for benefits.

Mrs. Lasko, 24, a secretary-receptionist, was discharged in October about two weeks after she told her supervisor she was four months pregnant.

She filed a class action suit in December against the Bureau of Employment Services on behalf of all women fired because of pregnancy but still able to work. The suit was handled by the Women's Law Fund, which asked for a three-judge panel to declare the pregnancy section of the Unemployment Compensation Act unconstitutional.

U. S. Appellate Judge Paul C. Weick, Senior U. S. District Judge Girard Kalbfleisch and Krupansky decided that the law itself was not unconstitutional but that the state had applied it in an unconstitutional way.

They ruled in an order filed Tuesday that the case for damages would be properly handled by one judge. Krupansky then issued his order concurring with their opinion.

Panels of three federal judges are required for determining the constitutionality of state laws.

Carl Zehner performed the double ring service for the daughter of Mr. Wilson M. Wood, 73 Bolens Ave., Circleville and the late Mrs. Annabelle Wood, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hunter, Route 2, Amanda.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white silk organza floor length gown with an empire waist and gathered skirt. The bodice yoke was of old fashioned eyelet lace and pearls.

Young Brad Thompson, son of Marvie baby and Dolly, is at home full of exciting things that he experienced while vacationing down Miami, Fla. way with his Aunt Patty and Uncle Woody Reed (they have Reed's Variety out on the "hilltop") and cousin Melanie. He brought home a special birthday gift for his mom that she will long cherish. Very thoughty of him!

What a delightful surprise we had at our household the other day when Ann (Mrs. Jerry) Stonerock stopped in for a chat. She is here to be with her mother Mary (Mrs. Claude) Crabill who has been quite ill. The Stonerock's moved from our community several years ago to make their home in Florence, S.C. With her mother was Linda who is now Mrs. Joel Gantt and her darling little son Jerry. Her husband was with them, too. Jerry Stonerock is expected to arrive Wednesday (tomorrow).

Mrs. Inez Lingo spent several days with her daughter Fern Mellinger of Wooster a week or so ago the occasion being to share in wedding showers given for her granddaughter Luann Mellinger. Mrs. Lingo will depart our town again later this week to be a guest at the wedding which will be solemnized this coming Saturday in Wooster.

Ah! how good it is to have dear friends who share their "green thumb" gardening talents. It has been our pleasure to savor some mighty good eating from the gardens of Bill and Pollie Buskirk, Gene and Helen Funk, A.J. and Juanita Cook.

Enjoying good food is a passion of mine as is clearly evidenced and this past Sunday three couples, Bob and Esta Debo, Ron and Marilyn Bush, papa Bill and yours truly journeyed up to Dayton to enjoy the oriental smorgasbord at the Totenka. Later in the afternoon we explored the shops in Dayton Mall. Out in the Mall proper there was a Gem and Rock Mineral Show being held so with the upcoming Williamsport Sulphur Spring Festival always uppermost in our minds several exhibitors were spoken to with the expectations that if calendars are clear for the dates of September 12-16 one or two or more might find their way to our midway. Would surely add some class to it and that's our aim.

During worship services at the Williamsport United Methodist Church Sunday morning the announcement was made by Jay Kaiser that the Bible Study Group wants to encourage church and community members to participate in establishing a memorial for the father of Rev. Crosby who just recently passed away after a lengthy illness. Contributions will be given to the Gideon Society to place Bibles in strategic locations for the Word of God to be available to all. Jay can answer any questions there might be in regard to this memorial.

Rev. Crosby, by the way, delivered a truly inspiring message Sunday morning. Our town is indeed most fortunate to have such a fine minister serving us.

Special music was provided during services Sunday morning by Nancy Keller whose superb mastery of the trumpet (or is it a cornet) is hard to equal. Her selection of Whispering Hope was truly beautiful. She was accompanied on the piano by Marybelle Crosby.

Charee Carter, small daughter of Byron and Ethel, has the untimely misfortune to be the victim of chicken pox. That is more often associated as a winter disease than the middle of summer. How uncomfortable.

Band Camp
Hey, all you Westfall band members, are you getting packed and ready for next week's sessions of hard work and drill, drill, drill at Camp Kirkwood? Plans are to depart Sunday and return Aug. 24. Parents night will be observed on Wednesday evening which has become a tradition at this point.

Mae Litter was hostess par excellence to her Canasta Club Tuesday night. Hauling in the "booty" were Mae for high; Margene Looney, traveling and taking home both low and door prizes was this writer. Secret sister gifts were received by Margene Looney (birthday and anniversary); Mae Litter, birthday; Esther Picklesimer, anniversary and Pearl Cochenour, birthday. Also playing were Colleen Justice, Jackie Hopper and Sue Graffis.

It is busy, busy, busy time in these parts what with the Youth Western Horse Show to be held at Westfall High School on Aug. 25, 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. Food will be served at the Booster booth throughout the day.

Solicitors Carolyn Finch, Monroe Twp.; Marilyn Roberts, Perry Twp.; Dixie Cummins, Jackson Twp.; Lois Ruoff, Darby Twp.; Daisy Rowland, Muhlenberg Twp.; and Eileen Easterday, Deercreek Twp. are busily making calls on school districts "rounding up" items for the big day.

Many of us are hard at work making plans for the annual Westfall Mustang Round-Up to be held at Westfall High School on Labor Day, Sept. 3. A separate accounting of this event will be sent for your reading in a few days. Don't miss it as there are quite a few innovations this year.

Another community involvement is our third annual Williamsport Sulphur Spring Festival which is "shaping up" into what we hope will be a "winner" this year. A meeting of local merchants, organizations and interested persons was held at the Pavilion last Friday evening. There was good turn out and enthusiasm couldn't have been better. A complete listing of the many chairmen for various activities and daily scheduling will be published a bit later.

Just mark the dates 12-16 of September as the time to attend the Festival and have a jolly good time. Also at the Festival there have been changes made which the committee hopes will add quality to the program. Executive committee members Ron Bush, LeRoy Lane and Eileen Easterday invite your suggestions and comments and questions. Constructive criticism is welcome — the other kind we can do without.

Daniel Webster said it, "There is nothing so powerful as truth and often nothing so strange." Give it some thought.

Oldsters Busy Climbing Adirondacks

KEENE VALLEY, N.Y. (AP) — From the summit of 4,098-foot Cascade Mountain, Harry Gamble's eyes took in a 50-mile view of the Adirondacks in northern New York. He admired the crystalline lakes, the thick forests and especially the mountains.

"Wish we could do it all over again," said Gamble, a small, white-haired figure in a red windbreaker.

"Yeah, Harry," said Glenn Fish, his husky, deeply tanned friend. "Back to '21, I mean," Gamble added, recalling the year he climbed his first peak.

Gamble, who will be 74 in August, and Fish, 63, belong to the Adirondack 46ers, a mountain climbing club. The only requirement for membership is to hike up all 46 Adirondack peaks judged by an 1897 survey to be 4,000 feet or higher.

They achieved that goal together in July 1969, after both had retired. For Fish, a former certified public accountant in New York City who now lives along the Hudson River in Riparius, the feat took less than three years. He then became president of the

Gilligan Signs School Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan signed into law today legislation to provide private elementary and secondary schools in Ohio with more than $40 million a year for health and secular education secondary services.

Gilligan said the legislation is "the logical and constitutional way to achieve our stated goal of keeping Ohio's private schools strong and healthy."

The 1973 legislature appropriated $81. million for a two-year period for the auxiliary services such as counseling, remedial reading audio-visual aids and health care.

The money had been appropriated for aid to parents of private school students, but that type of assistance was outlawed by federal courts.

"Passage of this legislation indicates that the General Assembly shares my view that we cannot allow our private schools to be crippled financially," Gilligan said. "That would put the strain directly on the public schools, and thus directly on the backs of the taxpayers."

Mars Capsules To Work In Pairs

MOSCOW (AP) —The four unmanned Soviet spacecraft hurtling toward Mars will work in pairs after reaching the red planet by next March, a Soviet science writer said today.

The report in the newspaper Sovetskaya Rossia led Western space experts to speculate that two of the craft carry modules that will attempt soft landings.

The other two craft may orbit Mars, acting as communications relay stations for the modules, the Western experts said.

EUROPEAN FALLOW DEER—The buck and doe eat from their feed box as the fawn looks on in the background. They are owned by Dick Redman, Route 1, Stoutsville.

Fawn Born In County

The first deer fawn born in captivity in Pickaway County was of a buck and doe purchased by Dick E. Redman, Secretary of Pickaway Farmer's and Sportmen's Association.

Redman purchased the buck and doe on Jan. 23 of 1972 at six months of age. The little buck was born to the pair on June 22 of this year. In the middle of July it was shot and killed by an unknown person.

The deer are contained in a fenced area containing multiflora rose cover and pine trees. A fence of 10 feet in height holds the deer in.

The deer are tame and will eat from the hand of a person it knows. The deer are held on state and federal wildlife propagation permits. Redman also raises ring neck pheasant, canadian geese, mallard ducks, squirrels, skunks, opossums, rabbits, guinea fowl and doves. Excess specimens are released back to the wild for restocking purposes.

Redman assists Tom Weldon, local game protector, in caring for injured game birds and animals and returning them to the wilds.

Japan Gives Economic Aid To U.S.

TOKYO (AP) — Only a few years ago, Japan was receiving large dollops of American aid. Now Japan feels the United States can use some financial assistance itself.

In early August, Japan's Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka announced his government was granting $10 million to 10 U.S. universities. The money is earmarked for Japanese studies programs which have been hurt by decreasing funds from the U.S. government and private foundations.

Last September, the Mitsubishi industrial group of 26 companies donated $1 million to Harvard University. Not to be outdone, the rival Sumitomo group gave $2 million to Yale University and another $1 million to the Japan Society of New York this June.

Japan, now affluent and ranking third in the world in terms of gross national product, has suddenly turned philanthropic.

Japan was able to rebuild after World War II with generous American assistance. And the Japanese, ever mindful of favors done them, would claim they would like to repay what they consider a moral obligation or "giri."

U.N. Deadlocks Over Sanctions Against Israel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council was deadlocked today over Egyptian and Soviet demands for sanctions against Israel for forcing down an Arab airliner last week.

All council members including the United States, Israel's chief backer, were ready to support a resolution condemning the Israeli action. But the United States was believed likely to veto anything stronger than censure.

Hinting at this, U.S. Ambassador John A. Scali told newsmen late Tuesday he saw "red flags" in some of the proposals during continuing negotiations outside the council chamber.

A council vote was expected late today or Thursday, depending on the outcome of the talks.

But in Israel, Premier Golda Meir said her government will continue to protect its citizens at home and abroad "with whatever means we have."

"We have nothing to be ashamed of — let those who censure us be ashamed," Mrs. Meir said.

Diplomatic sources reported that one obstacle to agreement on a Security Council resolution was removed when Egypt abandoned a demand that all countries be asked to halt aid to Israel enabling it to "pursue aggression."

Other proposed wording was reported still objectionable to the United States, Britain and France.

Speaking in the council debate Tuesday, Scali deplored the Israeli action as a violation of the U.N. Charter and of the rule of law in commercial aviation.

However, he asked the Arabs "to retain a sense of perspective and prevent this incident from leading to further reprisals and counter - reprisals."

Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah accused the United Nations of following a double standard in the Middle East and said Israel would reject any censure so long as Palestinian terrorists went unpunished.

Claim North Koreans Flying Egyptian Jets

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel's military command said today 10-20 pilots from North Korea are in Egypt flying jet fighters for the Egyptian air force.

Rickenbacker Will Read

NEW YORK (AP) — Capt. Edward V. Rickenbacker, the World War I American flying ace, left an estate valued between $1 million and $5 million, according to his will which was filed Tuesday.

The will, offered for probate in Manhattan Surrogate Court, divides the estate into 80 shares, the bulk of which goes to his widow and two sons.

Rickenbacker, who died July 23 in Switzerland, requested that the shares be divided as follows: 25 shares to his wife, Adelaide F. Rickenbacker, of Key Biscayne Hotel, Miami, Fla.; 20 shares to his eldest son, David E. Rickenbacker, of 5 Glenside Terrace, Upper Montclair, N.J.; 20 shares to his son, William F. Rickenbacker, of 507 Hardscrabble Road, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y.; five shares to his brother, Albert W. Rickenbacker, of 2658 Tilden Ave., West Los Angeles, Calif.; five shares to his brother, Louis E. 1040 U.S. Individual Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q) My garage was damaged during a windstorm. I spent $20 taking photographs of the damage in order to determine the amount of my casualty loss. Can I deduct the $20?

(A) Yes. If you itemize deductions the cost of photographs, including the purchase of film and developing charges, for the purchase of film and developing charges, for the purpose of establishing or computing your casualty loss deduction are deductible as a miscellaneous deduction. Do not include the $20 as part of your casualty loss.

(Q) I was just promoted and, as a result, I'm getting a substantial pay increase. I want to make estimated tax payments to avoid one big tax bill next year, but I've already missed the April and June deadlines for paying the first two installments of 1973 estimated income tax. What can I do?

(A) You can still file a declaration of estimated income tax — Form 1040-ES — but you must do so by September 17, 1973, and January 15, 1974. If you file your return and pay the balance due by January 31, 1974, you need not make your final estimated tax payment. The same rules apply in filing amended declarations of estimated tax.

Forms 1040 — ES and instructions are available at any IRS office.

(Q) What can represent a taxpayer at an IRS audit?

(A) Generally, attorneys, certified

Tax Rollback Cash Distributed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Auditor's office has disbursed $61.3 million in property tax rollbacks to Ohio's 88 counties.

public accountants, and individuals enrolled to practice before the Internal Revenue Service may represent a taxpayer at any stage of the IRS examination-appeals process. These three stages are the audit examination, district conference and appellate hearing. The person who prepared your return (and signed it as the preparer), if he is not otherwise eligible to practice before the IRS, may represent you only at the audit examination level. In addition, this representation may encompass only matters concerning the tax liability for the year covered by the return he prepared.

(Q) Is it true that a student can be exempt from income tax withholding?

(Q) Yes. Students and other individuals are exempt from withholding if they did not owe tax last year, expect to owe none in 1973 and have filed a Withholding Exemption Certificate (Form W-4E) with their employers.

However, if tax has already been withheld this year, the taxpayer must file a return next year to have it refunded.

KSU Evidence Given To Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional committee that has been investigating the 1970 Kent State campus shootings has turned over its evidence to the Justice Department, including what may be the only film in existence of the actual gunfire.

Also among the evidence, according to a committee source but disputed by a department official, is information that several Kent State students can identify the National Guardsman who fired the first shot.

The fusillade of bullets that followed left four students dead and nine others wounded. The case was recently

Phone Talks Seen Moving Off Center

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The deadlocked negotiations between General Telephone Co. and striking Communications Workers of America have apparently moved off center, a company spokesman said.

Don Detweiler said union negotiators were expected to offer new contract proposals today in a session with the company and federal mediator Howard Hughes.

Union officials could not be reached for comment.

The company has remained firm on its proposal of a 7 per cent wage hike since the strike began July 16. The union has sought a pay boost of 10 per cent and job security in the negotiations.

Prior to Detweiler's statement Wednesday on the new union proposal, Hughes said no progress has been made in the talks.

General Telephone, the largest independent phone company in the state, operates in 70 of Ohio's 88 counties. The union represents 2,800 workers.

reopened by Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson.

Investigators for the House Judiciary subcommittee headed by Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., Tuesday submitted to the department records of interviews with some 48 individuals, several films and other evidence stemming from their months-long probe.

But in an interview Tuesday night, Asst. Atty. Gen. J. Stanley Pottinger, who is heading the new probe, said that little of the committee's evidence will be useful.

"It would be very unfortunate to convey the impression that some new hard evidence has occurred by virtue of sending to us old information, state information or insignificant information. And most of what we have is

THEY DON'T WORRY ABOUT FUEL SHORTAGE—Bonnie and Stewart Schuldts travel in their mule-drawn home on wheels from Visalia, Calif., to Washington State. Schuldts sold their Visalia home, automobile and possessions for a "nice long vacation." "We don't have to worry about the gasoline shortage at least," said Mrs. Schuldts.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Avoid Big Breakup Scene

DEAR ABBY: At my age, I should be giving advice, not asking for it, but I just don't know how to handle this.

My husband passed away two years ago of a terminal illness. While he was sick, his best friend Charlie (a divorced man) was wonderful to both of us, and he promised my husband he would "look after" me.

After my husband's death Charlie helped me in my grief and loneliness, and I transferred the love I had for my husband to him. He's pushing for marriage, but I just don't trust him. I have become suspicious, jealous, and resentful of Charlie. He says he loves me, but he is very often "un-reachable," which upsets me. I have caught him in several lies, for which he always has explanations, but I am not convinced.

Every time I try to tell him I want to hold off marrying him, he gets a terrible attack of something. (Asthma or the shingles.) I am so afraid he will die, and I'll be responsible for it.

How can I get out of marrying him without making him sick?

IN A BIND

DEAR IN: Avoid a scene. Gently ease Charlie out of your life. See others and drop him gradually without telling him it's his swan song. It's your neck or his.

DEAR ABBY: I need help soon. My son is engaged to be married. I met his bride-to-be only once. She is a beautiful, rich society girl. I hear they are having a big church wedding. There will be judges, congressmen, governors and all kinds of high-class people there. Abby, I have never been to a wedding like this let alone been in one.

This is way out of my class. I wish I could say I have a headache at the last minute and ditch the whole thing. I don't know what to wear, and I won't know how to act or what to say. I'm afraid I'll be a hick from the sticks and I'll embarrass my poor son.

Fear Kennedy Crash Victim Paralyzed

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP) — Doctors say a teen-age girl may have suffered paralysis from injuries suffered in an auto accident involving two sons of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

A spokesman at Cape Cod Hospital said Pamela Kelly, 19, of Centerville, Mass., was still in serious condition Tuesday night with a broken spine and broken leg.

She underwent a three-hour operation Monday night that the hospital said was successful. The operation was performed by neurosurgeon Dr. Peter Carney with aid from two colleagues flown from the Lahey Clinic in Boston.

Doctors said it was too early to determine the extent of paralysis, and whether it would be permanent.

Pamela's mother, Mrs. Margaret Kelly, said, "We won't know for two weeks."

Pamela was the most seriously hurt of seven young people who were in an open Jeep-type vehicle driven by Joseph P. Kennedy III, 20. The car overturned on a Nantucket Island road Monday afternoon.

Joseph Kennedy was charged with "operating a motor vehicle negligently so that the lives and safety of the public might have been endangered," and is to appear Monday in Nantucket District Court.

Abernathy Back As SCLC Leader

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The Southern Christian Leadership Conference embarked on a program of reorganization today with a reluctant Rev. Ralph David Abernathy once again at the helm.

Abernathy, who announced his resignation July 9 as SCLC president, was swept back into office Wednesday and given a free hand to guide the civil rights organization by a unanimous vote of the SCLC board of directors.

The announcement of the rejection of Abernathy's resignation and his later acceptance of the presidency were greeted by cheers and applause from the 1,000 delegates attending the SCLC's 16th annual convention at St. John's Missionary Baptist Church here.

Abernathy, the successor to Martin Luther King Jr. as SCLC president, said he would serve for at least one more year and told delegates now is a "time for unity."

He hugged Vernon E. Jordan Jr., president of the National Urban League, who on behalf of the League pledged $1,000 to the financially troubled SCLC.

Among the SCLC directors who attended the meeting were Walt

Bellamy, a former Indiana University All-American, now with Atlanta of the National Basketball Association.

Dr. Joseph B. Lowery, SCLC board chairman, said the decision to reject Abernathy's resignation was made "after we left ourselves open to the guidance of the Holy Spirit."

He said more full time staff will be hired for the national office, and five regional offices will be set up around the country to relieve Abernathy of many daily details of running the organization.

Other speakers included Walter Fauntroy, district of Columbia delegate to Congress, and Allard Lowenstein, former congressman from Brooklyn.

Indiana Gov. Otis R. Bwoen welcomed the delegates and called for "a new human consensus for the progress of all mankind."

Delay Hearing On Burr Oak

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A hearing on a suit by operators of Burr Oak State Lodge to reopen the facility near Glouster has been delayed until at least Aug. 24 by the Ohio Supreme Court.

The high court took the action Wednesday on a request filed by Gov. John J. Gilligan and other state officials.

The hearing had been scheduled this week in Guernsey County Common Pleas Court in Cambridge.

Gilligan closed the lodge and state-operated cabins at Burr Oak State Park Aug. 3 following a series of bomb threats. The park grounds have remained open.

Ohio Inns, Inc., operator of the lodge, has been embroiled in a labor dispute with its employees who want union recognition.

Sneek-A-Peek

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Animals who are loved by humans for their unique qualities make good reading for young people. There are appealing books about animals for children of all ages in the library.

Picaro, an otter, is the pet of Dorothy Wisbeski, and the subject of her book, "Picaro, A Pet Otter." Pre-school children will enjoy the charming drawings of Picaro hiding her toys and giving her own soft dolls a bath. She sleeps in her own blue bed and has a friend, Daffy otter, who comes over to play.

After discovering that a capybara nibbles handbag straps and eats shoes, the Peet family banish him to the barn. But "Cappy-boppy" by Bill Peet is the story of a family captivated by the South American rodent who has come to live with them. Warm morning showers and daily swims in the pool make him more spoiled daily. Cappy's affectionate, sometimes stubborn moods give the Peet family and the readers an adventurous look at a little known animal.

Boa is the favorite pet snake of a young boy who collects snakes in "A Snake Lover's Diary" by Barbara Brenner. In one summer he tramps through swamps and bogs, catching a hognose snake and watching it shed its skin. His search for a king snake hiding in the dishwasher is hilarious. Serious studies of a snake's habits have been documented, and the beautiful photographs enliven the diary.

Wild, ownerless horses known as mustangs or broncos are a symbol of the old west. In "Mustang Roundup," Paul Laune recalls his exciting boyhood breaking broncos for saddle horses. He traces the history of mustangs from Cortez's time to frontier days when men called "mustangers" trapped these wild ponies for ranchers. Peace officers chasing bandits and Custer's men surrounding Indians are vividly recalled by men who were there.

Azeet is a war dog who submerges wearing a diving helmet and oxygen tank during underwater midnight missions. This exciting book, "Azeet - Paratrooper Dog," by Motta Gur, is not just another story about a brave dog. Azeet's relentless pursuit of the enemy during blistering desert heat, and her uncanny ability to sense danger make her a heroine. The author, an Israeli general, led the capture of Jerusalem during the six days war.

Lilo Hess' book, "The Misunderstood Skunk," is a photographic study of a family of skunks on her farm. Her skunks are shown in amusing situations; playing with their image in a mirror and crawling into drawers and boots. The daily activities of a skunk from birth to adulthood is the theme of the book.

Child Killed In Oklahoma Thunderstorm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair weather spread over most of the nation today following a night of widely scattered rainfall and lightning which led to the death of one Oklahoma child.

Thunderstorms were scattered from the central Plains and southern Plateau to the northern Mississippi Valley and along the Gulf Coast. Showers also dampened the northern and Middle Atlantic coast, where fog restricted visibility.

Providence, R.I., was swamped with more than 4 inches of rain during the past 24 hours. Duluth, Minn., basements were flooded Wednesday evening when 2.25 inches of rain poured into that city. Tulsa, Okla., measured 1.66 inches of rain about midnight.

Lightning set fire to a mobile home at Jay, Okla., near Tulsa, and to a house near Tahlequah and felled a tree killing one child.

Thunderstorms in parts of southern Arizona released heavy rains, filling normally dry creek beds. Strong gusty winds blew sand and dust over the region. Heavy showers caused some flooding in low areas of northwestern Texas.

A tornado damaged orange trees near Winter Haven, Fla., late Wednesday. Twisters also were sighted in the Dakotas, Nebraska and eastern Minnesota, but no personal injuries were reported. Large hail pounded areas of North Dakota, Nebraska and Arkansas.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 50 at Eureka, Calif., to 97 at Needles, Calif.

There are approximately 14,000 commercial state and national banks in the United States, employing a total of more than one million persons.

Only Hardship Price Boosts Should Be OK'd, DiSalle Says

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — The director of the Economic Stabilization Commission under President Truman says that industry should have to prove a hardship before any price increases are granted.

Michael V. DiSalle, the director of the Economic Stabilization Commission in 1952, said Wednesday he believes all price increases should be reviewed by the agency.

DiSalle, a former governor of Ohio, said, "I think industry should have to prove it would create a hardship if the price increase is not granted."

He also criticized the scope and size of the Cost of Living Council, which he said were too small to manage the economy.

An agency of 600 people is not large enough, he said, to run a wage and price control program for 200 million people.

"The government should not be put in the position to go chasing price increases," he added. "A program of that kind cannot function."

DiSalle, visiting friends here, suggested in an interview that an agency should have enough people to process price increase applications from industries, to interpret regulations and to enforce its own decisions.

He said enforcement should not be in the hands of the Internal Revenue Service, which "has a big enough job of its own."

Compared with Nixon's program which has only one office in Washington, the Truman program had 71 district offices.

The smallness of the Nixon economic supervisory apparatus, DiSalle said, is to blame for the rising prices and other economic problems.

Pull Body From River

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The body of an unidentified man who had been shot, bound and weighted was pulled from the Ohio River Wednesday near Lawrenceburg, Ind.

An autopsy was to be conducted at the forensic medicine laboratory here. The body was discovered by two water skiers and recovered by Kentucky State Police.

Sgt. Ray Wilson of the Boone County, Ky., police said the man had been shot at least once in the chest. His arms and legs were tied and a 25-pound anchor was attached to the body, Wilson said. Authorities estimated the man had been dead three or four days.

Prison Guards Walk Off Jobs During Protest

LUCASVILLE, Ohio (AP)—About 70 guards at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility protested the suspension of a co-worker Wednesday by walking off the job.

A spokesman for the correction officers said the guard was told to work by himself in a cellblock of 80 inmates. He said the guard was suspended when he refused to release the prisoners from the block.

Prison Supt. W. J. Whealon said the officer was overseeing 11 honor inmates.

John Linta, a spokesman for the Ohio Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, said the protest was unauthorized because the guards failed to follow the proper grievance procedures. He said the guards are members of Teamsters Union Local 413.

BRITT, Ont. (AP) — Provincial police have recovered the body of Richard John Beeson, 52, of Bay Village, Ohio, who fell from a boat Sunday while fishing with his wife on Dallas Lake, 20 miles east of Britt.

Ohio Libertarian Party Asks For Impeachment Of Nixon

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— The Ohio Libertarian party has urged five Ohio congressmen to support impeachment of President Nixon, backing up its call with petitions from their home districts.

Kay Harroff, state party chairman, told the congressmen by letter that Nixon has "invoked the 'divine right of kings' in the name of 'executive privilege' and 'national security'" and that Congress "should decisively refuse any such sanction."

The petitions, signed by 282 persons in the Akron-Cleveland area, were circulated and mailed to congressmen prior to Nixon's Wednesday night nationally televised speech.

They were sent to Rep. Robert F. Drinan of Massachusetts, who recently introduced a bill in the House calling for impeachment, and to Reps. William E. Minshall, James V. Stanton, Louis Stokes, Charles A. Vanik and John F. Seiberling, all of Ohio.

The chairman said the Libertarian workers circulating the petitions found that only about 25 per cent of those contacted favored immediate impeachment. She said many wanted the Senate Watergate investigation to continue indefinitely.

She also said a number of persons "feared their signing would result in government wrath and harassment."

The petitions said that Nixon should be impeached because he "violated the constitution by usurping power, denying constitutional rights and subverting justice." They also said that "by his own admission, Nixon set up a secret police organization and authorized illegal entry and illegal spying by government agents against American citizens for political purposes."

And the petitions said that "Nixon has made his administration one of secrecy and isolation from the Congress and the American people."

The Libertarian party advocates individual rights and the absence of government interference with them.

Lake Erie Going Bad 100 Years?

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A two-year $500,000 study concludes that the offshore waters of Lake Erie have deteriorated steadily for more than 100 years. It adds that no significant improvement has occurred recently in either the offshore waters or lower Cuyahoga River.

The findings dispute recent reports that the lake and river have been getting much cleaner.

The study was directed by researchers with Cleveland's water quality program in cooperation with scientists at Cleveland State, John Carroll and Case Western Reserve universities. It was funded mainly by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Al B. Garlauskas, project director for the city's water quality program, said the findings indicate that cleanup plans to get the water quality back to that of 1900 may not be adequate. He explained that cleanup standards have been based on previous studies listing 1900 a year when Lake Erie was not polluted.

However, Garlauskas said water analysis records uncovered for the first time show that offshore lake waters were much cleaner in 1850 than 1900. This means that it may require much tighter standards than now proposed to get the water back to the unpolluted state, he added.

Garlauskas said the study will be valuable in planning water quality programs and for evaluating the success of cleanup efforts now under way by the City of Cleveland and some industries.

He said much of the study was put together by Denis Case, former project director for the city's water quality program. Case is now director of research for the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Major conclusions of the study include:

Orlett Voting Probe Rejected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A joint House-Senate Ethics Committee decided Tuesday it had no jurisdiction in the first case it was handed while legislative leaders signed 106 bills and sent them to Gov. John J. Gilligan for final approval.

By a 6-5 party line vote, the Ethics Committee decided not to look into a complaint that Rep. Edward J. Orlett, D-34 Dayton, was off the floor July 10 when he was recorded as voting on several bills.

In addition to the bills signed, the legislative leaders also signed two constitutional amendments for the November ballot.

One provides for a Vietnam War veterans bonus and the other would put municipal and county courts into the 1968 modern courts amendment, making judges in those courts eligible for in-term pay raises.

The hearing into the Orlett votes never got off the ground as the 12-member committee, with one of six Republicans absent, convened. It bogged down first on procedural questions, then upon constitutional grounds.

"It was regrettable and avoidable that the committee broke down on a partisan basis on what should have been a nonpartisan issue," said Sen. Paul E. Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, chairman.

The committee was created last

Ask Injunction For Air Cleanup

-Lake Erie waters are quite clean a mile offshore. Cleveland's contribution to the lake's pollution as a whole is minor but near the shore it is tremendous.

-Recent reports that the lake's quality is improving appear to be misleading, at least in the Cleveland area.

-There are several sections of badly polluted water and others of fair water quality along the lakefront. There is good quality immediately east and west of the city.

-The city's two public beaches, Edgewater and White City, are both within zones of poor water quality.

-Fish populations in area waters are "under stress from the degradation of the ecosystem." The Cuyahoga River is the worst area with only a few fish found in the lower reaches.

-A wide variety of fish exist but most are of relatively low food value.

GARY, Ind. (AP)—A federal suit against U.S. Steel Corp. seeks a mandatory injunction to force the giant steelmaker to comply with an Environmental Protection Agency order.

The suit filed Wednesday charges U.S. Steel with excessive particulate emissions from its Gary Works and the Universal Atlas Cement Plant.

"This is the first suit of its type in the country under the Clean Air Act and we will insist on compliance with our order," said Valdas V. Adankus, acting EPA regional director.

A spokesman for U.S. Steel said the order would not allow the company enough time to change over to a new steelmaking process with built-in pollution controls. He said it could result in the shutting down of two open hearth steelmaking furnaces.

Where is their dream house without more energy?

Unless all of the new sources of clean energy are made available soon, your dream house . . . or your children's . . . could be little more than a dream.

Of course, if you live in a house using natural gas now, you'll continue to get the gas you need for the appliances you're using . . . or their replacements. People who already live in gas houses are lucky.

But America needs millions of new homes every year. And the home builders already have felt the effects of the gas shortage. In many areas of the country, builders can't get natural gas for all the new homes that must be built. And that adds to the supply problems of the other forms of energy. It doesn't leave the new home buyer much choice and means he could pay more for his new, non-gas home.

But, all forms of energy that America needs — gas, oil, coal, nuclear — are in short supply. And Americans should be concerned about that. You can help by learning more about the energy crisis and supporting efforts to provide America with enough energy to meet all its needs, including new and better housing.

Columbia Gas is working to help solve the energy crisis through Arctic exploration. The advancement of millions of dollars for rights to gas discovery has stimulated exploration and drilling activities in the Arctic. Commercially productive wells have been found. Huge pipelines remain to be built and Columbia is participating in their development.

Walther Leaves Hospital For Recuperation At Home

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — David "Salt" Walther, a race car and hydroplane driver who nearly died in the Indianapolis 500, stepped into the sunshine for the first time in 2½ months Wednesday.

The 26-year-old Walther has recovered sufficiently to go home for recuperation, doctors at the University of Michigan Burn Center said. He left immediately for his home in Dayton, Ohio.

Walther suffered burns over 34 per cent of his body when his racer crashed in the first lap of the Indy 500 on May 28. His car hit the outside retaining wall, exploding into flames and flipping down the track several times. The flames also injured several spectators.

He was transferred to the university burn center from an Indianapolis hospital. Doctors said Walther needed numerous skin grafts and underwent surgery to reconstruct his left hand.

Two other drivers, Swede Savage and Art Pollard, were involved in fatal crashes at the Indy track. Pollard was killed practicing for time trials, and Savage died several weeks ago from injuries suffered during the f nish of the race May 30. A pit crewman also was killed when hit by a fire truck rushing to the scene of Walther's wreck.

In a recent interview with The Associated Press, Walther said the fingertips of both hands had been removed but "that won't stop me from racing cars or boats."

Walther said at that time he had been trying to determine the cause of his accident which occurred 10 seconds after the rain-delayed race got underway. However, he said he would not make any public statements for awhile.

Asked about the accident, Walther said:

"I don't think there's any doubt I'm lucky to be alive. I don't think anybody would dispute that."

Browns Expected To Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns have consistently produced winning football teams, and it doesn't look like this year is going to be any different.

Since 1950, when the Browns joined the National Football League, they have had only one losing season.

The Browns wound up with a 10-4 record last season despite numerous injuries to both offensive and defensive lines and losing three of their first five games.

This year's group appears to have some question marks on defense, but is solid offensively.

Nine-year veteran Rich Jackson, who had a knee operation, already has been cut from the squad. The Browns had high hopes that he would do wonders as a defensive end.

Another defensive end, Joe Jones, is coming off a knee operation. It remains to be seen what he can do.

Registration For PP&K Contest Begins Monday

GOOD BOOT — A youngster gets off a punt in the annual Punt, Pass and Kick contest while other competitors wait to make their bid for glory. Registration gets underway Monday for the 1973 contest at Rod Bell Motor Sales.

On Monday registration will begin for the 1973 Punt, Pass & Kick Competition in the showroom of Rod Bell Motor Sales Co. In making the announcement, Jim Houseman, vice president of the dealership said: "We're looking forward to a big local PP&K competition in Circleville Sept 29. We hope all the youngsters 8 through 13 years of age in this area will come in to register and take part."

Ed Warning, competition director, pointed out that PP&K—throughout its six levels of competition—is free of any charge, and that youngsters need only have a parent or guardian accompany them to the showroom to register.

"Our competition here will have first, second and third place trophies for contestants in each of the six age groups, or 18 trophies in all," said Warning. "Increasing each entrant's chances of winning is the fact that youngsters compete only against others in their own age group."

There is no body contact in PP&K. It's punting, passing and place kicking for distance and points. First place winners in each age group in our competition will go on to the Zone competition. And from there, top winners go on up the ladder through District, Area, Division and National Finals.

This year, the National Finals will be held at the Super Bowl in Houston on January 13.

Each entrant, upon registering, receives a free PP&K Tips Book. In the 1973 edition, there are competition tips by NFL stars Jerrel Wilson, Norm Snead and Chester Marcol plus all-round suggestions from head coaches Don Shula and Dan Devine. The Tips Book also includes complete PP&K rules and helpful conditioning exercises for contestants. PP&K registrations will close at Rod Bell Motor Sales on September 28.

This is the 13th anniversary year for PP&K. From its inception the youth activity has been sponsored by the Ford Dealers of America and the National Football League. In that time more than 9,350,000 youngsters have taken part in PP&K, making it the largest and fastest growing activity of its kind in America.

Find Right Wood For Cooking Fires

By JIM DAUBEL
Written for Associated Press

The sun was long gone when a friend and I pulled into a campground in Southeastern Ohio and immediately began hustling up supper.

We scrounged for what wood we could find in the dark and managed to get a small fire flickering before the mosquitoes made us their evening meal.

As the fire burned down to coals, we flopped thick sirloins on the grill suspended close to the licking flames.

Within minutes we were savoring two of the finest steaks either of us had ever tasted.

There is something about a wood fire that cannot be duplicated on any charcoal grill, kitchen broiler or camp stove.

But with today's white gas or liquid propane, wood fires are as out of style as the woodburning stove.

Still cooking over wood is an experience everybody ought to try occasionally.

Selection of the proper wood will encourage you to fire cook more often. The best for cooking are the hardwoods, from those trees that usually lose their leaves annually.

Hardwoods tend to burn slow, with little smoke, and maintain high heat from glowing embers far longer than softer woods that burn hot with a big flame for a shorter period.

Dry seasoned hickory probably is the best wood available for camp cooking. Next are sugar maple, oak, beech and birch, although not necessarily in that order.

An ideal fireplace can be built by placing logs or large stones on bare earth in the shape of a keyhole with the flat end or "bottoms" left open to the wind.

Start the primary fire in the circular portion of the "keyhole" by loosely stacking heavy logs on sticks over wood chips atop wood shavings which are ignited.

The grill should be rested firmly on the parallel rows of stones forming the bottom of the keyhole. Once the fire is burning evenly, hot coals can be raked under the grill as needed for cooking.

The press guide of the Montreal Expos is 120 pages because it is printed in English and French.

Interleague Play Plan Not Expected

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Interleague play was the primary topic as American League baseball officials met an hour longer than planned late Wednesday, but their hopes for its adoption in the foreseeable future seemed dim.

The meeting was to resume early today, prior to a joint meeting of the American and National Leagues. However, one high official, who asked to remain unidentified, said an interleague play recommendation already had been rejected in an executive council meeting.

The recommendation was presented by Bud Selig, Milwaukee Brewers' president and member of a four-man committee which has studied the idea for several months.

Today's joint session was to be the final business of the major league's annual summer meetings.

American League President Joe Cronin said after Wednesday's session that interleague play still was being discussed.

Asked if he expected a formal vote at the joint meeting, Cronin said, "You never know. This is a joint venture, not one league against the other."

Sherman White

Ready For Browns

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Sherman White, now recovered from knee surgery will play at offensive tackle Sunday for the Cincinnati Bengals in a pre-season game with the Cleveland Browns at Columbus, Ohio.

White, Cincinnati's first round draft choice last year from the University of California, donned full uniform Wednesday for his first full practice at the Bengals' camp.

Doubtful starts, who have suffered minor injuries, are guard Pat Matson, receiver Isaac Curtis, defensive linemen Bill Petersen and Ken Johnson and Dan Kratzler.

Assistant football coaches Sherman Lewis and Dan Underwood at Michigan State were co-captains during their Spartan playing days.

Bob Briggs and Nick Roman played the end spots last season, doing an adequate job.

University of Arizona defensive end Bob Crum was picked up in the third round of the draft in an attempt to fill that need. However, coach Nick Skorich repeatedly has noted that no one has taken charge of the end positions as yet.

Linebackers are another problem. Dale Lindsay, a regular inside, is plagued by knee problems. Veteran John Garlington has been sidelined with a pulled hamstring.

Three cornerbacks are returning to the lineup: Tom Darden, Clarence Scott and Ben Davis. Bobby Majors, picked up as a free agent last year, has shown some promise in camp and rookie Jim Stienke could add some depth.

The only defensive spot the Browns are not worried about are the tackles. Walter Johnson and Jerry Sherk are among the league's best pairs.

The offensive line is solid, with Bob DeMarco at center, Gene Hickerson and John DeMarie at guard and Doug Dieken and Bob McKay at tackle all returning from last year.

First-round draft choice offensive guard Pete Adams could turn out to be a good backup. The 6-foot-4, 260-pound lineman put on a good show in the College All-Star game.

That line will give quarterback Mike Phipps the time he needs to get his passes off.

Backing up Phipps are seven-year veteran Don Horn and Brian Sipe, who spent last year on the Browns' taxi squad. Horn was acquired from the Denver Broncos in a winter trade.

Phipps will be tossing to veteran wide receivers Frank Pitts and Fair Hooker, each of whom pulled in more than 30 passes last year.

The Browns have finally found some depth in running backs.

Veterans Leroy Kelly and Bo Scott will be able to rest because of Billy Lefear, Hugh McKinnis and Greg Pruitt.

The Browns have been looking for someone to support place kicker-punter Don Cockroft, but he's not likely to need the help. Last year Cockroft won the Golden Toe Award for having the most accurate toe in football. He scored 94 field goal points.

Crenshaw Goes After Tourney Win

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Ben Crenshaw went into his first golf tournament as a professional confident, self-contained and ready to challenge the giants of the game.

"No special feeling," shrugged the long-haired, 21-year-old before teeing off today in the first round of a $200,000 tournament.

"It's not like I'd never played in one of these before," Crenshaw said before making his long-awaited debut as a pro. "I've had a little experience. I'll be okay."

He comes to the pros—there never had been any doubt about him eventually leaving the amateur ranks—with a glossy record behind him and unanimous expectation of a fantastic career in front of him.

Crenshaw, who won a flock of amateur titles including a couple of national collegiate crowns while at the University of Texas, probably is the most highly-touted youngster since Jack Nicklaus.

He outscored both Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer on the days he played with them and ended up as the low amateur in the Masters for the second year in a row.

He also finished in the top 20 at the tough and prestigious Colonial National Invitation and challenged for the title before finishing sixth in the Houston Open.

Racer Fuel System Set For Changes

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Specifications for a new fuel system approved Tuesday by the U.S. Auto Club board of directors and designed for total fire control are expected to be ready for the 1974 season.

The USAC board met for the second time since the Indianapolis 500-mile race in May and set up a new research and development group to supplement work completed in the past by the USAC technical committee.

The first job will be to implement the fuel system which will be the equivalent of a fuel cell within a cell that will hold a capacity of 50 gallons.

The board also stipulated that all refueling and venting of the refueling system must be from the left side of the machine — the side closest to the pit wall.

The development group, headed by USAC director of competition Dick King, also will begin a program of dynamometer and track testing to develop methods of reducing speed, increasing engine reliability and making stock block and turbocharged engines competitive for the 1974 championship circuit.

In other action Tuesday, the USAC board:

—Left unchanged the present regulations regarding wings or air foils on the championship cars.

—Improved driver safety by requiring redesign of the cockpit construction, including higher rollbars and added strength to give better protection. —Set a new minimum weight of 1,700 pounds for rear-engine sprint cars, to equalize the performance with that of the front-engine sprinters.

Merchants Edge Independents

Circleville Merchants No. 1 edged the Circleville Independents, 3-2, in a slow pitch contest Wednesday at Ted Lewis Park.

Duke Weffler hurled the win with Lester Smith and Jim Diltz sharing the loss.

Hal McConaughy, Gary Leisey and Roger McConnell carried the heavy lumber for the Merchants while Terry Morrison, Ty Ankrom and Jim Moorehead paced the Independents' attack.

Groves Decides To Turn Professional

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — Steve Groves pictures himself as no instant success after the burly Ohio State University AllAmerican announced Wednesday he's turning to professional golf.

"I don't think I'll be an immediate star like Jack Nicklaus was, if and when I get on tour," said the 22-year-old Groves, the current Ohio Amateur champion.

"The pressure is so great because you have to shoot good golf at all times. It's something I really want and I've dreamed about it all my life," said the Lancaster High School product.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Grand Spa, Tariffic Gun and What's A.B. are favored in a field of seven today for the featured $2,200 eighth race at River Downs over 5½ furlongs.

Brown Bing won the feature by a neck Wednesday in 1:44 2-5 for a mile and 70 yards and paid $7.80, $4.40 and $2.60. Backup placed, $5.40 and $2.60 and Miss Lagonda, third, $2.40.

The 9-9 combination of Nardown and Boyarin paid $91.40. The crowd of 4,503 bet $411,206.

Billingham, Morgan Lead Reds

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Joe Morgan, do-it-all second baseman, and Jack Billingham, a pitcher who has caught up with his potential, spelled the difference in Cincinnati's 1-0 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

two bases and made two key defensive plays, in addition to scoring the decisive run in the final inning of the Wednesday night game.

McNally, Orioles Defeat Rangers In 5-1 Contest

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Washington Senators moved to Texas but couldn't get away from Dave McNally.

They may be the Texas Rangers to most, but to McNally they're the Texas Patsies.

"I'll admit I've done some good pitching against this team," said McNally in an understatement after whipping Texas 5-1 Wednesday night for his 17th straight victory over the Rangers.

McNally started his winning streak in 1968, when the team was in Washington. He can't explain it, only enjoy it.

McNally had a no-hitter going until Toby Harrah led off the seventh inning with a single. The only other hit off the Baltimore left-hander was a home run by Bill Sudakis in the eighth.

The victory moved Baltimore into first place in the American League East, one-half game over Detroit.

In the other American League games, the California Angels beat the New York Yankees 3-1; the Kansas

City Royals stopped the Cleveland Indians 5-1; the Milwaukee Brewers nipped the Chicago White Sox 5-4 and the Minnesota Twins downed the Detroit Tigers 9-7. Rain postponed Oakland at Boston.

Angels 3, Yankees 1
Winston Llenas' pinch single with two out in the eighth inning drove home the tie-breaking run and sparked California to a 3-1 decision over New York.

Royals 5, Indians 1
Al Fitzmorris scattered seven hits for his fifth straight victory since his recall from the minors to lead Kansas City to a 5-1 verdict over Cleveland.

Brewers 5, White Sox 4
A bases-loaded sacrifice fly by John Briggs in the ninth inning scored Dave May and carried Milwaukee over Chicago 5-4.

Twins 9, Tigers 7
Larry Hise's two-run homer in the eighth inning powered Minnesota to a 9-7 success over Detroit. Before Hise won the game for the Twins, the Tigers had tied it 7-7 in the top of the eighth on Ed Brinkman's home run.

Ernie Kellerman 'With' Weiskopf

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—The ripe old age of 29 going on 30 reflects a contrast in age emphasis from football to golf for two Ohio high school classmates—Ernie Kellerman and Tommy Weiskopf.

Kellerman, in his second year with the Cincinnati Bengals of the NFL after six with the Cleveland Browns, played on the same golf team with Weiskopf in high school in Bedford, Ohio.

Kellerman is considered an "older pro" at Cincinnati in a game where the emphasis is on youth. Weiskopf, who has won four major golf tournaments this year including the British Open, has many years left.

"I'm with him—mentally—going down every fairway," enthused Kellerman, now in the autumn of his football career.

"It was pretty even between us when we played in high school," recalled

Kellerman. "But then I went on with basketball, football and baseball."

"He didn't play anything but golf." But Kellerman has no regrets about football. He is well into another career as a manufacturer's representative, a career that may well bring him the financial rewards he has gained in football.

"It's a real good business," said Kellerman, "something you can really get your teeth into. If you work at it all year round, and really hustle, there's a lot of big money to be made."

Kellerman is associated with Milrob Corp., of Cleveland. He said Dave Jones, a wide receiver released last year by the Browns is also now with the firm.

The Bengals meet the Browns Sunday in a pre-season contest at Columbus, Ohio Sunday, but Kellerman, who wants dearly to play, doesn't expect to see a lot of action.

outlasting Pirate starter Dock Ellis, even though both pitchers allowed six hits each. The game was scoreless until the Cincinnati ninth when Morgan singled, stole second and scored on a single by reliable Tony Perez.

"Morgan has got to be in the top five in all of baseball as far as value to a ball club," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson.

"He has great range in the field; he hits close to .300; and he steals 50 bases," Anderson added. "What else can you say about a guy who does all those things?"

Billingham, who pushed his record to 16-8, yielded a single to Richie Hebner to open the Pirate ninth. However, he retired Manny Sanguillen on an infield out, and pinchhitter Milt May hit into a double play to end the game.

Despite Billingham's effectiveness, Anderson ordered him to walk Pirate slugger Willie Stargell intentionally with two outs and nobody on base in the eighth inning.

The unusual move paid off when Richie Zisk grounded out, but Billingham acknowledged that he had misgivings.

"My wife's got a thing," he explained. "She tells me that when I intentionally walk someone they usually score, so when I walked Stargell I thought about my wife sitting home in Cincinnati."

A key factor in Billingham's shutout was the defensive work of Morgan at

U.S.-Soviet Clash Seen At Games

MOSCOW (AP) — The recurring battle for sports supremacy between the United States and Russia was on again today as the seventh World University Games began.

The Americans have sent their largest contingent—well over 300 men and women—to compete in eight sports. Of these, many were swinging into action on the first full day of competition.

Kathy Schmidt, a 19-year-old six-footer from Long Beach, Calif., who has been chasing the women's world javelin record, looked like America's brightest hope in Lenin Stadium today.

Kathy's best throw is 208 feet, 1 inch, less than six feet short of the world mark.

The most spectacular track event of the day's program was the gruelling 10,000-meter run. Two Americans—Richard Bowerman of Indiana University and Charles Maguire of Penn State—were trying to hold off the strong challenge of the East Europeans.

Gold medals were to be decided in these two events and in the men's shot put. The Americans had two shot putters—Dana La Duc of the University of Texas and Jesse Stuart of Western Kentucky University—in the field.

Other medals to be decided Thursday were in men's foil fencing and the women's team gymnastics in optional exercises.

Michigan State opened its first Big Ten football campaign in 1953 with a 21 to 7 victory over Iowa.

second. He made a diving, one-handed catch of a line drive by Rennie Stennett in the eighth, and he robbed Stargell on a hard-hit grounder in the sixth.

The Cincinnati ninth opened when Morgan singled to right and raced to second for his second steal of the game and his 50th of the season.

"He goes when he wants to," Anderson said of Morgan. "He knows a heck of a lot more about base stealing than I do."

Ellis walked rookie Dan Driessen intentionally after Morgan's theft to face Perez, the Cincinnati cleanup hitter.

"They walked him to get to me," Perez said, "so I said I'd better get a hit."

Perez responded with a sharp single to center and Morgan scored easily.

Giants 11, Phillies 2
San Francisco powered Juan

Marichal to his 237th career victory, making him the winningest active pitcher in the major leagues. Marichal and Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals had been tied for the lead, but Willie McCovey's three-run homer in the first inning gave Marichal all the runs he needed to take over the top spot.

Mets 7, Padres 0
Tom Seaver's two-hitter was backed by three New York home runs in their triumph over San Diego. Jerry Grote hit his first homer of the season and the first grand slam of his career in the fourth inning to spark New York's hitting heroics.

Astros 3, Cards 0
Run-scoring doubles by Cesar Cedeno and Bob Watson in the sixth inning supported a fivehitter by Jerry Reuss.

Another highlight was provided by Jim Wynn's spectacular catch of a Mike Tyson drive in the St. Louis second inning. He gloved the looping line drive with two men on and one out to save the shutout.

Dodgers 7, Expos 2
Bill Buckner homered, doubled and singled, scored two runs and led Los Angeles over Montreal. Don Sutton and Jim Brewer combined to help the Dodgers maintain their 2½game lead over the Reds in the League's Western Division.

Philadelphia Eagles Face Pittsburgh Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles, fresh from a 45-21 trouncing at the hands of the Cincinnati Bengals, collide tonight with the tough Pittsburgh Steelers in a National Football League exhibition game.

Eagles' coach Mike McCormack can be forgiven if he has the feeling that things are going to get worse before they get better. His young team is a heavy underdog against Pittsburgh.

Steelers' coach Chuck Noll plans to give McCormack and the Eagles the Steelers' best shot. He'll start the same team that opened against Miami in last season's American Football Conference playoff game, led by quarterback Terry Bradshaw and running back Franco Harris on offense, and "Mean" Joe Greene on defense. Terry Hanratty is expected to spell Bradshaw in the second half.

The Steelers are 1-1 in exhibition play, beating Baltimore 34-7, and losing to Minnesota 10-6. Noll expressed dissatisfaction with his offense, declaring it lacked "intensity."

Harris, the Steelers' leading runner last season as a rookie, has been used sparingly because of a bruised thigh and knee, but has been pronounced fit for tonight.

McCormack, who compared his club's performance against Cincinnati with a high school team, will start with young John Reaves at quarterback, and substitute with veteran Roman Gabriel in the second half.

Washington will be at Buffalo on Friday, while on Saturday Baltimore will play Detroit at Memphis, Houston plays Green Bay at Milwaukee, Minnesota will be at Kansas City, Chicago at Miami, New England at Atlanta, Oakland at Los Angeles, St. Louis at Denver and New Orleans at Dallas.

On Sunday, Paul Brown goes against his old team when his Cincinnati

Bengals play the Cleveland Browns at Columbus, Ohio, a cross-town rivalry will be resumed at New Haven, Conn., when the New York Giants play the New York Jets, and San Diego will be at San Francisco.

When the Bears try to put an end to Miami's 21-game winning streak, John Huarte will not be on the sidelines. The Notre Dame quarterback, who reached one of the high points of his professional career when he won the Heisman Trophy in 1964, reached one of the low points Wednesday when he was placed on waivers by the Bears and unclaimed by any club.

Coach Abe Giron said Huarte is a free agent and might play football in Canada where another Heisman winner from Notre Dame—Joe Theismann—currently plays for Toronto.

New York Giants Coach Alex Webster said he still was undecided about his starting quarterback for the regular season, but announced that Norm Snead would open against the Jets Saturday and Randy Johnson probably would start against Pittsburgh Aug. 26.

Miami said it would keep star running backs Mercury Morris and Larry Csonka out of action again this week. Morris has not seen any game action after suffering a hip injury before the recent College All-Star game. Csonka has been out since the All-Star contest with a leg bruise.

Kidron Merchants Win Championship

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—Cordell Boss tossed a no-hitter Wednesday night as the Kidron Merchants breezed past defending champion Columbus Ramada Inn 5-0 to capture the Ohio Fast Pitch Softball Tournament title.

Boss hurled seven hitless innings and received enough aid from the bat of third baseman Jake Miller. Miller blasted two solo home runs deep into the left field.

Scotty S. Victorious In Latonia Feature

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Scotty S. won the featured pace mile at Latonia Wednesday night by 1½ lengths in 2:01.1-5 and paid $5.50, $4.20 and $2.20. Deuce placed, $3.80 and $2.40 and the show horse was Ashlawn, $2.20.

Houston Oilers Starting All Over

HOUSTON (AP) — When last year's crop of Houston Oilers produced only one victory, management decided to plow everything under and start over.

Sid Gillman was hired on as foreman of owner Bud Adams' spread and wasted no time culling what he considered chaff from wheat. Gillman made 19 player trades before the Oilers reported for pre-season work at Kerrville's Schreiner Institute.

Gillman's plan is to head off a repeat of last year's 1-13 record, the worst in the National Football League, and return the Oilers to their glory days of the early 1960s.

Houston's record earned the No. 1 selection in the pro football draft, and the Oilers may have received the best price per pound for their choice of any team in many seasons.

Although the Oilers' offensive line was a disaster area in 1972, Coach Bill Peterson grabbed Tampa defensive tackle John Matuszak, 6-foot-7 and 290 pounds.

Although a defensive end in college, Matuszak is expected to fit into the Oiler plan as a starting defensive tackle beside Greg Sampson, last year's No. 1 selection. Former Dallas Cowboy Tody Smith and veteran Elvin Bethea will man the ends.

Houston's biggest defensive weakness could be its linebacking corps, depleted last season when Peterson traded away George Webster and Ron Pritchard.

A pleasant surprise at middle linebacker in Houston's 16-13 exhibition loss to the New York Jets was rookie Greg Bingham. Third-year veteran Floyd Rice and Phil Croyle fill out the linebacking corps.

Willie Alexander and Benny Johnson are the cornerbacks since hard-hitting Zeke Moore moved from the corner to a safety position with Bob Atkins.

The Oilers have three top quarterback prospects in Dan Pastorini, Edd Hargett and Lynn Dickey. The biggest Oiler weakness last season however, was keeping them healthy with one of the most porous offensive lines in the league.

Gillman's big move there was to snatch all-pro center Bill Curry, along with his three championship rings, from the Baltimore Colts to lend leadership and stability to the line.

Comebacks by last year's casualties, including right tackle Elbert Drungo and guard Richard Cheek, also could help.

The arrival of Paul Robinson and Fred Willis from Cincinnati aided the Oilers' running back corps, but it barely got above the anemic stage last season.

Peterson hopes added strength in the offensive line and help from running back George Amundson, a No. 1 draft choice; Willie Rodgers; Al Johnson and Lewis Jolley will give the Oilers a running attack with more teeth this season.

Gillman, who dealt away many of the Oilers' draft choices to get the players he wanted, said he wasn't finished.

"I will trade away our draft choices for next year and then I'll start on 1975—just give them all away," Gillman said. "I'll do whatever it takes to start winning right now."

Now it's the white milk saddle cover. New York jockeys' valet Dick Meade had four made up from his wife's stole - with her permission. He sold one to Robyn Smith, two to Jean Cruguet for use in France, and one to Eddie Belmonte.

Steelers Become Bona Fide Super Bowl Contenders

BY GARY MICHOCES
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — There was more to the 1972 success of the Pittsburgh Steelers than just fanatical fan clubs and the miracle touchdown reception of Franco Harris.

The real keys to the first division title in the Steelers' 41-year history were talent and execution, and it's those ingredients which make Pittsburgh a bona fide Super Bowl contender this season.

Behind it all were the astute, thorough coaching of Chuck Noll and the talents of players he amassed almost exclusively through the drafts.

Virtually the same team returns this season, a little older, a little wiser and seemingly just as eager, so the smiles of optimism seen at the Steeler training camp are understandable.

The soul of the Steeler team is its defense, which allowed 175 points last season, fewer than every team but Miami, which gave up 171.

The leader of that defense is left tackle Joe Greene, last season's National Football League Defensive Player of the Year.

"Mean Joe" teams with ends Dwight White and L. C. Greenwood and tackle Ernie Holmes to give Pittsburgh a front four that held opponents to 123 yards rushing per game in 1972.

Behind them is the linebacking trio of Andy Russell, Jack Ham and Henry Davis.

The Steelers' secondary was considered a weak link at the start of last season, but Pittsburgh went on to lead the National Football League with 28 interceptions.

The big names on the Steeler offense are quarterback Terry Bradshaw and Harris, the 230-pound fullback who was NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year last season.

Steeler wide receivers include veterans Ron Shanklin and Frank Lewis, both game-breakers, but No. 3 receiver Al Young had to quit pro football due to a chronic illness.

Young's departure created a depth problem, but among the possibilities is Preston Pearson, a converted running back, who is rated perhaps the best all-around athlete on the team.

Second-year man John Makin has a hold on the tight end spot, but he is being pushed by Warren Bankston, a converted fullback.

Leading the Steeler runners is Harris, who last season became the fifth pro rookie to rush for more than 1,000 yards.

Depth could be a problem in the offensive line, but it appears solid with Jim Clack and Ray Mansfield at center, Sam Davis and Bruce Van Dyke at guards and Jon Kolb and Gerry Mullins at tackles.

The kicking game is also sound with placekicker Roy Gerela, second leading scorer in the AFC last season, and Bobby Walden, the second leading punter in the conference.

"SHAKE HANDS, COME OUT SMILING"—Former heavyweight champions Joe Louis, left, and Max Schmeling, center, share a laugh with former referee Arthur Donovan upon Schmeling's arrival in New York. Donovan was the official for their bout at Yankee Stadium June 22, 1938, a match that Louis won.

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (AP)—Nebraska State Sen. Gary L. Anderson of Axtell had a twopoint lead going into today's final round of the national high power rifle championships with a total of 1,177 points out of a possible 1,200.

A two time national champion, Ronald Troyer of Williamsfield, Ohio, gained a point on Anderson in the first match Wednesday and had sole possession of second place with 1,175 points.

Department Is Given Watercraft Powers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Natural Resources has been given broader authority to curb boating accidents on the state's lakes and rivers.

Gov. John J. Gilligan signed legislation giving the department's watercraft division law enforcement powers and allowing development of educational boating programs.

Gilligan said the new state law assures continued federal funding for boat safety programs.

Slagle Asks Court Block To Election

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Sen. Gene Slagle, D-26 Galion, Wednesday asked the U.S. District Court to protect his legislative seat until the end of the six-year term in 1976.

Slagle filed the suit to challenge action taken by the Ohio Senate in June. The upper chamber invalidated Slagle's election victory over Republican incumbent Robin Turner of Marion and said a new election should be held this November.

Slagle upset Turner by 155 votes in the district made up of all of Seneca and Crawford counties and parts of Marion, Sandusky, Richland, Huron, Delaware and Wyandot counties.

Turner claimed the Marion County Board of Elections failed to properly rotate the candidates' names on the ballot.

Slagle's suit asked the federal court to:

—Declare him qualified and entitled to hold his seat until Dec. 31, 1976.

—Stop Secretary of State Ted W. Brown from enforcing the Senate resolution.

—Order Brown not to conduct elections in the 26th district for the seat this November. Brown has already directed the Richland County Board of Elections to hold an election this year.

Slagle contended in his suit that the Senate resolution and Brown's action violates his constitutional rights.

William A. Lavelle, state Democratic party chief, said the party will support Slagle in the fight.

"Gene Slagle won his Senate seat fairly and squarely," he said. "The Ohio Senate has no legal right to void his election or declare his seat vacant, and we intend to support Sen. Slagle to the U.S. Supreme Court, if necessary."

Porter Hears Prison Suit

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—U.S. District Court Judge David S. Porter, with an admonishment to Ohio prison officials not to take any action against suing prisoners, has set a hearing in chambers Friday on a suit charging inhuman treatment at the Lucasville penitentiary.

Porter denied a temporary injunction to unseat three prison officials Wednesday. The suit was filed by the Ohio Prisoners Union on behalf of the 500 inmates at the prison.

Named as defendants were Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan, Ohio Corrections Director Bennett Cooper, and prison Supt. W. J. Whealon and his associates James Schotten and Jerry Foulk.

The suit asks the removal of the latter three for "misfeasance and malfeasance" and asks $250,000 in damages.

Judge Porter also ordered that male lawyers by permitted into the prison to interview their clients.

Lookout House Fire Probed

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Arson investigators from the Kentucky State Police continued today to look through the rubble of the burned out Lookout House.

The former 1950 gambling casino turned plush supper club and restaurant was destroyed by fire Tuesday.

Investigators Joe Wilhoite and Phil Hampton would not speculate about the cause. They said they intended today to interview employees and firemen.

"The amount of insurance and money involved are the factors here," said Hampton Wednesday.

He said that arson investigators are assigned to every fire where there is a large loss or a loss of life. There was no loss of life in the fire here.

George Jacoby, comptroller for the owners, Ohio Real Estate Investment Co., said the building was insured for $1.2 million, and $550,000 for the contents. The firm estimated the loss at $2.5 million.

The club was closed down July 15 for remodeling and had been scheduled to reopen Sept. 1.

Vincent Price Sued For Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor Vincent Price has been sued for divorce by his wife of 23 years, former costume designer Mary Grant Price.

The divorce petition on Wednesday said the horror film star and his wife had been separated since Jan. 15. They were married Sept. 30, 1949, in Tijuana, Mexico.

Mrs. Price asked custody of their daughter Mary, 11, and child support. The petition said disposal of the couple's community property had been settled by prior agreement.

Women Hammer Away At Traditional Walls

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — It's been work that traditionally has been exclusively male, where the sight of women often results in wolf whistles.

Men in the building trades are still turning their heads when women walk by. But the women now are wearing hard hats and jeans instead of skirts, and are working on the construction site.

For some old-timers, the inclusion of women as laborers and carpenters means the end of clannish atmosphere of an all-male world and of a working vocabulary liberally sprinkled with four letter words.

To the six women helping to remodel dormitories at the University of Richmond, their jobs mean better pay than they were used to and a chance to prove they can work as well as men.

As laborers, just like the men at the same pay, they wash windows, remove screens sweep and scrape floors, knock down walls and load and haul scraps to the county dump.

One woman is a carpenter's assistant, and foreman of the women workers on one part of the construction site. The other women, now laborers, want to change the green stripe on their yellow hard hats for the blue one on the carpenter's assistant hats.

Like men laborers, the women work an 11-hour day from 7 a.m. to 6:30 p.m., making the $3 an hour starting pay and moving up the pay scale as they become more skilled.

"Everyone here is equal," said Joe Oates, the burly superintendent of the remodeling job at Thomas Memorial Hall.

At the end of a long day, the women say they find themselves invigorated, tired but, strangely, not aching in every muscle.

Workers male and female must not sit down during the day or they will be fired.

"We can squat, kneel or lean up against something, but we can't sit," said Mrs. Ann Barry, a 21-year-old college student who is working with her friend, Miss Kathleen Cassidy of Washington.

"I never knew how good a cold beer could taste at the end of the day until I got this job," Miss Cassidy said and laughed.

"This job is a lot better than sitting behind a desk all day. You sleep very well at night, too. And getting to that soap and water when you get home from work is a real thrill," said the well-scrubbed, freckled Mrs. Barry.

She and Miss Cassidy are working for the construction company this summer in order to buy cameras for a photography course.

This is a full-time profession for Miss Delores Oates, who ties up her long hair with a barrette to keep it out of the way and strides about in heavy work shoes.

She is the only woman carpenter's assistant, and is foreman for the women in the dormitory site.

When she isn't working with two experienced carpenters "who take time and patience to tell me how to do things," she must "go behind the other girls and make sure nobody's goofing off and that they've done the job right."

Miss Oates comes by her interest in buildings naturally. Her father is the superintendent for whom she works. But family connections won't help if she doesn't do her work.

"If women want to work like men, they have to act like a man," Oates said emphatically. "That goes for my daughter, too. If she can't do the work, she can just quit and get on up the road."

Most of the women are at home in the heavy shoes and jeans of the laborer. Cathy Demme of Upper Saddle River, N.J., an 18-year-old sculpture student at Virginia Commonwealth University, is used to being outdoors and having dirty hands.

A former salesgirl and cashier, she much prefers this occupation. "You make better money. It doesn't make any difference if the hours are longer and it's manual labor; if you do the job well, you don't have someone hanging over you all the time. That's what I hated, having people pestering you."

"You have a looser feeling and

Trade Up, Exports Down

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — "The contribution of world trade to the U.S. economy is the highest of any country in the world," Carl Gerstacker, chairman of the Dow Chemical Company, told a World Trade Conference here. "Our trade total exceeded $100 billion last year and was roughly double that of Japan."

Nevertheless, Mr. Gerstacker cautioned, the nation needs desperately to encourage exports in every possible way. "Although our exports were up 13 per cent last year," he said, "imports increased by 22 per cent. World trade is important to the economic well-being of all Americans and we're going to have to work harder to improve our competitive position."

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those individuals with a fine mind who will want to have praise for anything really worthwhile accomplished early in life. The incentive will be lessened by criticism as this is a sensitive youngster who needs to be handled with the proverbial kid gloves. There can be fame in this chart, especially in the field of government, the theater, or the oratorical platform. Give finest education you can afford.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — It's official now. Julia Child has bid adieu to public television and won't be back this fall with new episodes of her "French Chef" series. The shows you'll see will be reruns.

It's not that she lacks an underwriter for her popular cooking show. It's just that she wants to take a break after a decade of showing viewers how to whip up Gallic eats.

"There are people who would like to underwrite new shows, but Julia's been working for 10 years straight," says a spokeswoman at Boston's WGBH-TV, where "The French Chef" is produced.

"She has a house in France and she sort of wanted to take a sabbatical," the spokeswoman said, adding that there is a possibility Miss Child might do occasional cooking specials or start her series again. She said underwriters are interested in both prospects.

"But we can't do a thing about it until she comes back after Labor Day and we've talked to her about it," the spokeswoman said. "So, there won't be a new series of 'French Chef' programs this fall."

"There might be a few specials if she likes the idea. If she decides to go back into daily production, there might be another series but it wouldn't be ready for this fall, obviously."

Miss Child, a pleasant matter-of-fact woman, began cooking on public television in U.S. banks, and probably Feb. 11, 1963. Since then, twice that many more are on she's done nearly 330 shows and written several best-selling cookbooks.

Her show was in danger of going off the air last September for lack of an underwriter, which in public TV is a sponsor who pays for cost of the show but isn't allowed to surround it with commercials.

Finally, the Polaroid Corp., which had underwritten the show for three previous years, decided to do it again for the 1972-73 season when no other support seemed imminent.

Walter Cronkite, the veteran reporter and anchorman of the CBS Evening News, has been missing from that weekday show since May 28. But he's not ill and hasn't been declared AWOL by the network.

He's just been vacationing, courtesy of the new contract he signed this spring with CBS.

They'll Tell Automatically

BOSTON (AP) — Automated teller devices, standing alone or embedded in building walls, are gaining rapid favor among U.S. bankers, Arthur D. Little Inc. reports.

First introduced in Europe and Japan several years ago, the card-activated devices for 24-hour banking service first appeared in this country in 1968. Today there are more than 1,000 automated tellers in U.S. banks, and probably twice that many more are on order.

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Let's see now: Loong Da Chien's brother, the dare devil, is slain in a fierce duel with Kwan Chun, who in turn goes to the mountains to become a monk and renounce worldly affairs.

But Loong Da Chien, himself a nimble fellow with sword and karate, wants

More Term Insurance

BOSTON (AP) — More and more women are buying term life insurance, expert says. Sabino Marinella, president of Continental Investment Corp., says young married women are in the vanguard of this surge.

Over 4.3 million women in this category took out term policies in 1972. This is a 20 per cent increase over 1962, when there were 3.6 million new policyholders.

"The wave of interest in this type of protection for women is simple to explain," Marinella said. "They report that term is an answer to full coverage — and they are particularly pleased with lower cost of premiums."

Marinella says young married women with small children want insurance when their families may need it most. He says the cost of replacing the services of a young wife is significant for any husband.

He also says there are advantageous aspects for young widows and divorcees. "Many in this group are faced with the formidable task of raising one or more children all by themselves, a serious undertaking. And, in addition — being breadwinner as well as mother — she often finds herself in a position where she cannot afford to save or invest if she is bogged down with high cost insurance," Marinella added.

revenge, not to mention his brother's "devil sword," which Chun swiped.

Thus he engages in a series of blood-drenched battles, aided by his "monster sword," against the fighting Yi Brothers of Low Mountain; Chow Chi and his deadly umbrella; Moe Ji and his terrible hand, and all the boys down at Tee Ching's fencing academy.

Naturally, he slays them all in vivid color to the accompaniment of horrible screams from the victims. One of the characters in this low budget Hong Kong offering remarks: "Loong Da Chien isn't really bloodthirsty, but he does have a strong character."

Titled "The Ghost Sword," this 1½ hour blood and guts thriller has packed in fans of make believe mayhem in San Juan. Indeed, these cheap karate and swordsmen films have proved profitable in the rest of the Caribbean and several Latin American countries.

And now the movies have hit the United States.

"To say that they are popular here would be the understatement of the year," said Steve Clug, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer supervisor for the Caribbean. "And the moviegoers in the United States are discovering these films."

Most come from Hong Kong and are virtually plotless with battles ad nauseum involving scores of persons karate-chopping and hacking each other to cube steaks.

The first productions usually featured swordwork set in a 19th century Oriental setting. Fists have since replaced steel with the sketchy plot lines brought up to contemporary times.

An innovation is the use of a pretty girl as the star. She is a sort of Oriental women's libber who can dish out the violence as good as she gets.

Leaps of 20 feet into the air are standard fare in the films with lingering close-ups of writhing victims pouring out lots of fake blood to a soundtrack of revolting grunts and gurgles.

The movies are dubbed in English with Spanish subtitles for the Caribbean market and the film makers aren't too particular about whom they get to read the scripts. In the "Ghost Sword" several of the inscrutable Orientals spoke with distinct American accents.

Massacre Evidence Discovered

CUIABA, Brazil (AP) — An archeologist in Brazil's remote western state of Mato Grosso has found evidence of what may have been a mass slaughter of Paiguas Indians by Portuguese colonial soldiers almost 200 years ago.

Lehel Silimon, a Hungarian born scientist who has lived in Mato Grosso since 1953, said he discovered "nearly 100" skeletons — men, women and babies — with their heads chopped off buried near the Paraguay River.

Silimon determined that the bones were of Indians, because of pieces of native pottery he found buried nearby.

"We still must carry out more studies. But one thing is sure: those Indians did not die natural deaths," he told a newsman. "It wasn't an epidemic either. They were massacred."

The skeletons were discovered near Ft. Coimbra, built in 1775 when Brazil was a Portuguese colony. The Brazilian army still uses the fort today. When some human-like bones were found nearby in 1968 a major at the fort called in Silimon, who was working on a state-financed archeological survey, to investigate.

Brazilians first thought the bones might have been those of Paraguayan troops who attacked the fort in an 1864-70 war against Brazil, Argentina and Uruguay. But Silimon said it was most likely the skeletons were those of Indians.

Mato Grosso historical records show that a fierce tribe of Indians called the Paiguas used to attack Portuguese boats on the Paraguay River. Archives from the fort say that following a campaign by soldiers and settlers to wipe out the Indians, "the natives' resistance ceased." It was not clear in what year the reported attack occurred.

Assembly Passes Fewer Bills

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For a long time a lot of people have believed the adage that says, "When the legislature passes a law someone loses some freedom."

Believers may take some comfort from the downward trend in the number of bills passed by Ohio's general assemblies.

Output of bills has dropped the past and Mrs. Joe Hutchins of near Logan.

Funeral services were held Saturday in Hill Funeral Home for Mrs. Della Reichelderfer, widow of Clay Reichelderfer. Her death occurred Wednesday in Crest View Manor, Lancaster. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Betty Cloud of Lancaster and Mrs. James Hatmaker of Columbus, three granddaughters and one brother L.R. Grimes of California.

two sessions. At the present rate it will be even lower when the 110th General Assembly closes shop in 1974.

Figures may mislead. The legislature has a knack for putting a lot of action into a single measure. Classic example was the state's $9.9 billion appropriations bill for 1973-1975. It was an all-time high, up from $8.1 billion in the last biennium, and a volume of new spending laws in itself.

The lawmakers use the device of an omnibus bill, a catchall that can rewrite pages of statutes.

Thus far this year, the legislature has sent about 170 bills to Gov. John J. Gilligan. Few vetoes are expected.

A total of 996 bills has been introduced in the House. The Senate received 403 for a 1973 total of 1,399. The legislature may receive more this year, and is certain to do so next year when the 110th General Assembly convenes in January for its second regular session.

The 109th General Assembly received a total of 1,842 bills, of which 360 were enacted into law. The 108th received 1,833 and 498 became law.

The high output during the 108th — 1969 and 1970 — may have been partly due to Republican domination of both houses while the executive branch was headed by GOP Gov. James Rhodes.

During the first two years of Democratic Gov. Gilligan's administration he had a legislature with both houses under Republican control. In the current session the House is controlled, 58-41, by the governor's party, but Republicans hold a 17-16 margin in the Senate.

In spite of the political makeup of the last two legislatures, there have been surprisingly few vetoes. Rhodes vetoed only one measure during the 108th. Gilligan rejected only four measures during 1971 and 1972 but let 10 bills become law without his

Raney Given Life Term For Slaying Of Guard

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Wayne Lester Raney, 23, of Montgomery County, was sentenced to life in prison today for the shooting death of Arthur Sprouse, 41, a guard at the Lucasville prison.

Raney, who is currently serving a life sentence at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility, pleaded guilty to a first degree murder charge before a three-judge panel in Scioto County Common Pleas Court.

signature.

The legislature has not overridden a gubernatorial veto in the current session, or in the last several sessions.

It takes a three-fifths vote — 60 in the House and 20 in the Senate — to override a veto, the kind of majority neither party can put together without help from the opposing side.
